'Surprised' by 3,946 Plurality

Record-Breaker for Koenig

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Francis R. Koenig rewrote the record books Tuesday with a stunning 3,946-vote victory over James J. Tyrrell, the Republican hopeful and Bernard Singer, the Conservative.

Koenig admitted to being "surprised" at his plurality "I thought we'd win by 1,500 or 2,000 votes. I didn't really expect this."

Koenig polled an unofficial 7,111 votes compared to Tyrrell's 3,165. The victory for the Broadway insurance man was complete — he won every district of every ward. Singer polled 1,298 votes.

Coincidentally, the man Koenig will succeed at city hall, Raymond W. Garraghan, was the first Democrat to carry every district in every ward when he defeated Republican C. John Bechtold two years ago. Until yesterday, Garraghan's 2,798 plurality over Bechtold was the largest by a Democrat. Koenig surpassed that and the record of former Mayor Conrad Heiselman who won by 3,275 in 1939.

Koenig, in his acceptance speech at the VFW Post on Delaware Avenue said, "This is truly a very proud moment for myself and I am sure for my family and every one who contributed in any way at all to my election as your mayor."

"I will do everything in my power to give all of the people of the City of Kingston the very best administration possible.

Koenig continued, "My sincerest thanks to Mayor Garraghan who nominated me, to former Mayor Ed Radel and Chil Caruso who acted as city wide coordinators of my campaign to the other district coordinators as well as to every other person who worked for or voted for me, regardless of their political affiliation.

"My deepest thanks to The Kingston Daily Freeman, to Harry Thayer and his editorial of the air and to the various unions for their endorsement. I hope, and indeed I will pray, that I may be able to serve the people in such a way as to warrant the endorsements and support of so many of our citizens.

Koenig's platform during the campaign was based primarily on his eight years of experience in government and his lifelong involvement in the community, both as a resident and a successful businessman.

Singer conceded defeat at 10:17 last night and Tyrrell followed shortly after at 10:44.

Koenig took an early commanding lead and simply ran away from his opponents. He carried his home ward, the First, by a 642 to 287 margin over Tyrrell. Singer got 132 votes in the First.

Koenig beat Tyrrell in Tyrrell's home ward (the Eighth) by an almost 2-1 majority, polling 674 votes to Tyrrell's 368. Singer got 105 votes in that ward.

Spada Retains His Post

KINGSTON

Republican County Clerk Albert Spada's continuing career in Ulster County politics came into even sharper focus Tuesday night with an enormous edge over the two opponents who sought to unseat him.

Spada, who is also Republican County Chairman will begin his second term as county clerk.

With only 51 out of 138 election districts reported by early this afternoon, Spada polled 10,047 votes, his Democratic opponent, Dr. Willis Raff of New Paltz received 4,893 and his Conservative competitor, Mrs. Janice Schoonmaker of Pine Hill garnered 837.

Speaking at the Ulster County Court House where election returns were reported, Spada said he was pleased and happy with the fact that Ulster County voters have "again voiced their confidence in me." Spada's victory was his second this year. He previously won the GOP chairman's post last Spring.

Happy with his own and Coroner William S. Keyser's large pluralities as well as the numerous Republican victories throughout the county, Spada promised the GOP would give the county the same "proven, dedicated government the people of Ulster County are accustomed to."

During pre-election days little was heard from Spada's opponents in the way of active campaigning. Raff, political science professor at State University College at New Paltz said that if he were elected he would work hard for the establishment of a County Charter that would make the post of county clerk an appointive one.

Mrs. Schoonmaker had said that if she were elected she would change the hours and the days the county clerk's office is open for business.

Prior to election, Spada, commenting on the functions of his office which includes the Motor Vehicle Department, told of the impending installation of a terminal computer system which will afford direct wire service with the State Motor Vehicle Bureau. He explained that immediate information on all registration and licenses would become available to Ulster authorities under such a system.

He also told of working with Sen. Jay P. Rolison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell toward transportation improvements in the area, especially the realignment of Rt. 209 which he said was of first importance.

Spada, who is completing his first term as clerk formerly served as deputy county clerk for four years.

In addition he served two years as legislative assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and two years in the same capacity in the office of former State Senator E. Ogden Bush.

Long time active in Republican circles, he has been a member of the Ulster County Republican Committee for 12 years. He was a Third Ward committeeman and one of the organizers of the Ulster County Young Republican Club and was elected district governor of the New York State Young Republican Club to represent all the counties of the Third Judicial District.

Gallo, Richter Complete Sweep for City Incumbents

KINGSTON

Richter, running for another four-year term on the Democrat-Liberal ticket, defeated Thomas F. Saccoman by a 2,728 plurality, 6,819 to 4,091.

Gallo, who was elected by only 818 votes in 1967 upped that margin considerably, defeating his Republican challenger Burton C. Davis by 3,952 votes, 6,969 to 3,017. The third man in the race for alderman-at-large, Worthington Rider, polled 828 votes.

Koenig, who was elected mayor, and Gallo and Richter, ran on the "vote for the team" platform. All three had the distinction of winning every district in every ward.

Gallo was jubilant in victory, shouting, "the torch is passed." He will serve another two years a president of the Common Council. Previously, Gallo was elected to two terms as an alderman from the old Ninth Ward. Gallo ran for his first term for alderman-at-large in 1967, defeating Louis J. Smith, the Republican, by 818 votes.

Richter was "gratified" by the support shown him. "We're trying to do a job for the people," he said. "It's nice to know it's appreciated."

Richter, during the campaign, had run on his record, which he said, provided for even justice for all, including the so-called minority groups. "It was no accident that we had quiet summers in Kingston," he said "The minority groups knew they would get fair and equal justice in my court."

Richter's plurality in the downtown wards of the city, where most af the minority groups reside, tended to bear out his statements.

He defeated Saccoman by 709 to 402 in the Eighth Ward, by 277 to 161 in the Ninth Ward, by 359 to 163 in the 10th ward and by 416 to 165 in the 11th Ward.

Some of Richter's supporters, questioned after the election, were somewhat surprised at his strong showing. "We didn't doubt that Hubie (Richter) would win," one supporter said, "but we thought it would be a close race."

Veteran Democrats recalled that Aaron E. Klein, now Democratic county chairman, was defeated for reelection for judge in 1961 by another Saccoman, Joseph.

Richter, however, proved that his ticket-leading margin in 1965, the year he was first elected, was no fluke, winning by an even bigger margin this year.

Richter, Gallo, Koenig and the 13 aldermen will be sworn in on Jan. 1.

Democrats Make Some County Inroads

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Republican majority of 28-5 on the County Legislature, which was reduced to 22-11 in Tuesday's election, still affords the GOP necessary two-thirds majority needed to pass the upcoming 1970 budget.

Democratic inroads into the county's representative body were mainly made with the election of six Democrats to represent the city, an increase of four over the present two incumbents, William Edelmuth and Orrie Riehl both Democrat-Liberals who were reelected. The Democrats also captured one seat in District 7 and one in District 11.

Republican sweeps occurred in Districts 2, 8, 9, 11 and 12.

Leading vote-getter among the city representatives on the county board was Democrat Dr. Gerald P. Gorman who in the past had been an unsuccessful candidate for coroner and assembly posts. According to unofficial election results Gorman polled 5,992 votes, right behind him with 5,598 votes was city GOP chairman Meivin Mones, Republican-Conservative who was top vote getter the last time out. Edelmuth received 5,498 votes in third place and Democrat Andrew Gilday came in fourth with 5,477. Incumbent Republican-Conservative John Sangaline polled 5,203. He and Mones will be the only two Republicans representing the city as at-large representatives. James F. Gilpatric Democratic-Liberal ran sixth 5,177; Riehl was next with 4,949 and William G. Davis Democrat-Conservative made the eighth spot with 4,858. Nineteen candidates sought the eight seats.

District 1, (Saugerties) — The balance of power remains the same with two Republicans and two Democrats although one incumbent Republican C. Freeman Lasher lost his seat to another GOP candidate, Charles Scala. Lasher polled 2,925 and Scala 2,973. Incumbent Republican Clifford C. Snyder retained his post with a vote of 3,088. Democrat-Conservative incumbents, Richard Thornton and Paul Brazier were returned to office with votes of 3,272 and 2,936 respectively with Thornton the high vote getter. Eight candidates sought the four seats.

District 2 (Ulster, Hurley, Marbletown and Town of Kingston) — A Republican sweep of five candidates keeps the district in the GOP column. Incumbent-Conservatives S. Robert Kelder, Lester C. Elmendorf, Richard Nace and Majority Leader Douglas V. Dye were all returned to office and Lewis Hall of Hurley was also elected. The race was especially noteworthy because of an effort on the part of a "Republican Vigilante Committee" to dump Dye failed.

Elmendorf was the top vote-getter with 5,610 ballots followed by Kelder with 5,594; Dye with 5,477, Nace with 5,470 and Hall with 5,300. Ten persons sought the five seats.

The Vigilante Committee, in a letter to voters asked that all GOP candidates be elected except Dye and asked that Republicans vote instead for James Barton, a Democrat. Barton polled 1,152, the highest number of votes garnered by the five Democrats in the contest.

District 3, 4, 5 and 6 comprises the city of Kingston, already mentioned.

District 7 (Rosendale-Esopus — This district elected Democrat Minority Leader Roger Mabie, with 2,411 votes, and was no surprise to anyone. Voters also selected Democratic-Conservative Lewis Kirchner with 2,298 votes and Rosendale Councilman Glenn DeBrodsky with 2,560. Incumbent E. Stirling Potter did not win reelection but came in fourth with 2,264 votes. Six candidates sought the three seats.

District 8 (New Paltz-

THE WINNER LINDSAY

Lindsay Leads Victory in State Over Law and Order Candidates

United Press International

Liberals and Democrats, led by Mayor John V. Lindsay's smashing re-election victory in New York City, rolled back law and order conservatives in crucial local elections throughout New York State Tuesday.

Democratic candidates scored victories in city after city across upstate New York, recording at least two impressive upsets. In no major election was a conservative candidate campaigning on the law and order platform elected.

In Buffalo, Mayor Frank A. Sedita won re-election by the biggest plurality in the city's history despite challenges from a conservative city councilman and an independent Negro candidate. Sedita, a Democrat, was 20,000 votes ahead of Republican Mrs. Alfreda Slominski, with third party candidate Ambrose I. Land far behind.

Lindsay easily won election against his two conservative challengers, Democrat Mario Procaccino and Republican John J. Marchi. Incomplete returns gave Lindsay a 150,000 vote edge on Procaccino. Marchi ran third throughout and was the first to concede.

In Albany, Republicans had little success in their strong campaign to oust the 45 year domination of the Democratic machine headed by 83-year-old Daniel P. O'Connell. Erastus Corning II, 60, won his eighth term as mayor of the capital city. Corning, who took office Jan. 1, 1942, is the senior city mayor in the country in terms of service.

There was only one office on the statewide ballot. Judge Henry Gibson of Hudson Falls was unopposed for the Court of Appeals seat formerly held by Kenneth B. Keating who was named ambassador to India.

Lindsay, who campaigned against the Vietnam war and for racial harmony in the city told campaigners in a victory speech early today:

"You have delivered a message to Albany and Washington that they can no longer ignore our cities...and it is a message that the people in New York City want the war in Vietnam to end."

Lindsay, 47, drew his greatest strength from Manhattan where he ran better than 200,000 votes ahead of Procaccino, a lead the Democratic candidate was unable to overcome in the other boroughs where the mayor made a surprisingly strong showing.

The handsome, articulate mayor raced about the city, using the prestige and glamor of his office to assuage the feelings of different disaffected groups.

Thus he was constantly at the side of Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir when she visited the city, a development which had a mellowing effect on many Jewish voters unhappy over some of the mayor's decisions during the school crisis.

He personally accompanied the delivery of snow plows to Queens where last February a sudden blizzard had caught the city unprepared and had subjected Lindsay to catcalls in that borough.

When the New York Mets won the National League pennant and eventually won the World Series, Lindsay went down to the locker room in Shea Stadium and permitted himself to be doused with champagne along with the other celebrants.

The combination of Lindsay's positive campaign, Procaccino's negative effect on the electorate, plus the siphoning off by Marchi of conservative votes that would have gone to the Democratic candidate proved decisive.

Assessor Posts to Dems In Woodstock Election

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA

WOODSTOCK

Voters in the upper districts of Woodstock and in Zena were credited with Election Day upsets in the art colony which saw Republican assessors going down to defeat for the first time in recent memory.

Long-time GOP assessor, Birge Simmons, chairman of the Board of Assessors, lost his bid for reelection to newcomer and teacher, William Kronenberg. Democrat Kronenberg won a 4-year term, pulling 1,239 votes to 1,153 for Simmons, a plurality of 86.

Irwin Goldstein, the other half of the Democratic assessor team, rolled up a 72 vote plurality, to defeat Mrs. Adele Longendyke, Republican candidate making her first try for public office. Goldstein polled 1,226 to his opponent's 1,154.

The dual wins give Democrats control of the three-man Board of Assessors, after a hard-hitting campaign in which they stressed inequalities in tax assessments in Woodstock.

But Republicans retained solid control of the Woodstock town board Tuesday when Milton Houst, Paul DeLisio, and James Myers scored decisive victories in the races for supervisor, councilman and town justice.

And incumbent GOP legislator William R. West Jr., seeking his second term to the lone seat in District 12 (comprising the whole of Woodstock) won re-election. West, a former Woodstock supervisor, defeated John O. Bonilla, IBM engineer, 1,434 to 922, a 512 plurality.

Realtor Houst, opposed for supervisor by teacher Michael Boyle, was returned to his second term in office when he received 1,262 votes to Boyle's 1,155, a plurality of 107. In a race considered close by normal Woodstock standards, Houst lost two districts, but carried four.

In the councilman race, DeLisio (R) defeated James Hanson, Democratic committeeman, 1,450 to 905, a 545 plurality. Republican attorney Myers won over artist Richard Crane (D) by 887 votes, 1,634 to 747, for town justice.

William Klementis, unopposed for superintendent of highways, and Marge Harder, also unopposed for town clerk, drew votes from their Republican constituents and Democratic voters alike. For the third time running, Mrs. Harder led her party; received the highest number of votes in the township.

Republican candidates on the county level also rolled up substantial pluralities. Albert Spada, Republican, won over his Democrat opponent, Willis H. Raff, and Conservative Janice E. Schoonmaker, by wide margins in Woodstock. Cornor William S. Keyser (R-C) turned back Democrat Myron Kutcher with a big plurality.

Some absentee and military ballots are still uncounted and not included in these totals, but the big Election Day news out of Woodstock was that 85 per cent of the voters turned out at the polls.

Victorious

Republican candidates in Woodstock wore winner's smiles outside GOP campaign headquarters. At left is William R. West Jr., who won reelection as legislator in District 12. Next to West is Milton Houst, incumbent town supervisor who will continue to serve in that position. Shaking hands with West is a newcomer to political ranks, Paul DeLisio, who will take a seat on the town board as councilman. At far right is another new face in local politics, Attorney James Myers, who will replace incumbent Town Justice Edgar C. Leaycraft (Freeman photo by Haines).

Big Plurality for Keyser

KINGSTON

Reelected by a resounding plurality for his third term as county coroner, Republican-Conservative William S. Keyser of Kingston called his victory over Democrat Myron Kutcher very "gratifying."

The pre-election campaign described as extremely quiet never-the-less was based on the issue of whether the county should continue the coroner position or replace it with the medical examiner system. The issue was raised by Kutcher who favors abolition of the coroner post.

The same issue, raised several years ago by the Democrats resulted in a close contest between the candidates running at that time.

On the political scene for a number of years, Keyser was once alderman of the old Second Ward, ran for the post of alderman-at-large and was first elected coroner in 1963. Kutcher's candidacy was his first attampt at a county-wide post. Previously he ran unsuccessfully for assessor of Woodstock.

Keyser, a city resident, is president of Keyser Funeral Service with chapels in Kingston and Port Ewen.

He attended School No. 6, Kingston High School and was awarded a scholarship to Admiral Farragut Academy. He enlisted in the U.S. Army in 1962 serving as a demolition specialist in the 501 Parachute Infantry Regiment.

A graduate of Renouard School of Embalmers, he also attended the Universities of Syracuse and Illinois.

Active in church and civic affairs, he was also appointed a commissioner of the Kingston Housing Authority in 1962 by Mayor John J. Schwenk and served as chairman of the county's annual Heart Fund Drive for several years.

He and his wife, the former Natalie LaTour are the parents of two sons and two daughters.

Republicans Win Big In Marlboro, Lloyd

SOUTHERN ULSTER

Republicans have captured supervisory posts formerly held by Democrats in the southern Ulster townships of Marlboro and Lloyd.

In the Town of Marlboro, Democratic incumbent, Michael Canosa was upset by Republican challenger, Ralph Lofaro, by a margin of 1008 to 926 and in the Town of Lloyd, Bernard Keuleman, selected by the Democratic party to pursue the post soon to be vacated by retiring supervisor Thomas Shay, was defeated by Republican Louis Foscaldi 1222 to 989.

In Marlboro the Republicans made it a clean sweep over the Democrats incumbents for councilman, Paul Quimby, 809, and T. Jack Conn, 836, were defeated by Vincent Troncillito, 1166, and Edward Kramer, 1043; incumbent town justice, George Maurer, 823, was defeated by Carle Mower 966; incumbent town clerk, James Woodward, easily defeated Norma Appler, 621; Pat Mannese, 1350, defeated Julius Miller 538 for two year assessor; and incumbent Joseph Porpiglia 1270, defeated Ralph Waters 528 for four year assessor.

In other town of Lloyd political contests, Republican Harold Berean, 1139, edged out Democrat Joseph Pavero, 1101, for town councilman; Democrat Charles Morano, 1280, defeated Republican Frank Kedenburgh, 879, for four year assessor; and William Knapp, 1238, defeated, Joseph Gargiulo, 905, for two year assessor.

Three Democratic candidates — Vincent Gaffney for town clerk, Peter Annela for highway Superintendent and Lewis Distasi for town justice — were also endorsed by the Republican Party.

Dems Cop Two Seats In Plattekill Town

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

SOUTHERN ULSTER

The Republican party in the Town of Shawangunk maintained its firm hold on the political machinery of this southern Ulster township, while its Republican neighbors in the adjacent Town of Plattekill incurred slight political losses.

In Shawangunk, the Republicans swept all town elective posts and in Plattekill, Democrats won two contests to break the GOP monopoly on town government.

In Shawangunk M. J. O. Smith, 1296, defeated Andrew Holmeyer, 605, for supervisor, incumbent town clerk Elizabeth Hammesfahr, 1511, defeated William Butcher 547; Fred W. Grau, 1285, defeated John O'Brien 546, for town justice; Alfonso Sellet, 1288 defeated James Howell, 576, for councilman; incumbent town justice Gregston Greer, 1402, defeated Joe Chernowski, 483; incumbent two year assesor Fred W. Grau, 1285, defeated John O'Brien, 546; and Herman Mahlandt, 1,332, defeated Edward Blaustein, 536, for four year assessor.

Incumbent supervisor, George Sisti Jr., 873, defeated Donald McNicholas, 695; incumbent town clerk, Edith Wager, 978, defeated Carmen L. Collazo, 592; incumbent tax collector Adelaide Martino, 925, defeated Grace Coy, 612; Wayne Smith, 800, defeated Edward Porcelli, 735, for town justice; and Ralph Grismar, 765, edged by Robert Eichler Sr., 752, for two year assessor.

The Democrats won two seats. Incumbent two year assessor Eldred Smith, 729, was defeated by Peter Soganelli, 804; and incumbent highway superintendent, Lester Wager, 744, was defeated by Thomas Dawes, 812.

Reduces Fees

WASHINGTON (UPI) --A federal program of bonding employed former convicts has shown such a low rate of defaults the bonding company involved has reduced its fees by 60 per cent.

The Labor Department said that of 1,738 former prisoners bonded under the program begun in 1966, only 27 defaulted. As a result, the United Bonding Co. of Indiana dropped its rate for the Labor Department from an average $42 per year to $16.80 for each $1,000 bond.

City Republicans Gain Three Council Seats

KINGSTON

The Republicans picked up three more seats in the Kingston Common Council to cut the Democratic majority to 9-4 according to unofficial election returns.

Newly elected Republican aldermen include Brian D. Smith in the Third Ward, Edmond J. Roux in the Ninth Ward and Titus Sims in the 13th Ward. The other Republican is John Machione, who won a narrow victory, 542-530 over Democrat-Liberal Daniel Cronan in the second ward.

The race in the Ninth Ward was the closest, with Harder losing to Roux by an unofficial count of only three votes, 258-261. Ronald J. Cole, the Conservative, polled 21 votes in the Ninth Ward.

Finch retained the distinction of being the Democrat's top aldermanic vote getter. He defeated Mrs. Marie Bectold, the Republican, by an 810 to 258 margin. Clarence Kaiser, the Conservative, polled seven votes in that race.

Smith defeated the incumbent Democrat-Liberal Joseph Conlin in the Third Ward by 26 votes, 430 to 394.

The race between Mrs. Ludlow and the Republican-Conservative Peter Fisher in the Fourth Ward was a rematch from last year with much the same results, a narrow victory for Mrs. Ludlow. She defeated Fisher by 18 votes, 387 to 369.

Heitzman scored a convincing victory over his Republican-Conservative challenger in the First Ward, Elmer Carney, defeating him 563 to 442.

Quick also won handily in the Sixth Ward, beating Brendon Alexander, the Republican-Conservative by a 599 to 410 margin.

Perry was returned to office in the Seventh Ward, defeating Richard Cahill by 425 to 357.

Primo was one of the big winners, as he beat two opponents, Republican Fred Linnartz and Conservative Robert Hardwick. Primo had 620 votes, Linnartz, 364 and Hardwick, 131.

The 11th Ward race saw Edward Norton returned to office by a substantial margin. He polled 389 votes as compared to 117 by the Conservative, Mrs. Helen Radakovich and 75 by the Republican, Mrs. Dolores Buck.

Mancuso was the runnerup in the aldermanic plurality race as he defeated Republican Gene Persico 672 to 161.

Both political parties considered the aldermanic races vitally important his year as this Common Council is expected to reapportion the city in 1971. The aldermen will serve for two years.

TYRRELL: I'll Be Back

JAMES J. TYRRELL

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

James J. Tyrrell, who took the Republican banner to its worst defeat in the history of the city, today promised that he'd be back in two years and would fight anyone for the nomination.

Bernard Singer, the Conservative, on the other hand, had praise for his supporters and called his party "the force of the future."

Tyrrell calmly accepted the overwhelming defeat at the hands of Democrat-Liberal Francis R. Koenig, but refused to be counted out of politics. Koenig polled an unofficial 7,111 votes as compared to Tyrrell's 3,165 and Singer's 1,298.

Tyrrell said that the Republican Party beat him and "they beat themselves in the process." "Two years from now, I'll be right on top," Tyrrell said.

"I don't care who they rominate. I'll take him to a primary. I'm not going into a convention. Convention's are a waste of time.

As for future plans, Tyrrell said he would stay in Kingston and might take a job as a television newscaster. "I'm going to stay in the Hudson Valley," he said.

Singer, who many predicted would be a major factor in the three-way race explained his poor showing thusly," "There was too much anti-Tyrrell sentiment in the city. The people voted for Koenig to make sure that Tyrrell wouldn't get in. We were a victim of some of that anti-Tyrrell feeling. They didn't want to take a chance voting for us."

Singer said his party had been a factor in the aldermanic elections and in the races for legislator in the city. "We did pretty well out in the county too," Singer said. "We improved over last time out," he said. "The Conservative Party is the party of the future."

Melvin Mones, the Republican chairman who took office in July, said he had said in July that if the party took four or five aldermen he would be happy.

He said there had been great division within the party over Tyrrell's candidacy. "A lot of the Republicans weren't sold on Tyrrell."

Mones said the Republican Party would "start rebuilding next week, from the committeemen right on up." He said he was disappointed by the party's showing yesterday, but not discouraged."

"We're going to start grooming candidates for the 1971 elections right now," Mones said. "We'll be back."

HURLEY

The lone Democrat on a Republican town board, Schneller lost to councilman George Schroeder who polled 1,451 votes to Schneller's 1,164.

Esopus voters, on the other hand, placed incumbent supervisor George Freer as the lone Democrat with newly elected Republican town officials. Freer edged out Republican William Zacher by 172 votes with 1,381 to Zacher's 1,209. Conservative supervisor candidate Dale Liese polled a slim 160.

Hurley residents had been told only last week that they may face a 25 per cent tax increase, with both top candidates pledged to "slash the budget" that is to be voted by the town board this evening.

Incumbent Hurley town clerk Raymond Crosswell ran unopposed and was given 2,196 votes.

Also winning with Schroeder on the Hurley Republican slate was incumbent Superintendent of Highway Winfred Snyder who polled 1,658 to Democratic opponent Harry Wage's 726.

Another Hurley winner included tax collector Philip Metzger who polled 1,752 on the GOP and Conservative lines over Democrat Stella Winnie with 761. Schuyler Weidner was elected four-year assessor on the Republican-Conservative tickets with 1,750 out polling Enrico Albane on the Democratic line who had 692. Clarence Jansen took the two-year assessor post for the GOP party, with Conservative backing, with 1,732 over Joseph Bohn's 731.

Cornelius DuMond topped Democrat Harold Bibbo with 1,734 on the GOP-Conservative poll to Bibbe's 740. Walter Rose Jr. was elected councilman 1,708 to Democrat Arthur Hogan's 780. Rose had both Republican and Conservative backing.

GEORGE FREER

GEORGE SCHROEDER

Esopus voters named Republican Emily Card as town clerk over Democrat Madeline Finzgerald, 1,758 to 885; and Republican John O. Beaver as town justice over Louis M. Klein, 1,497 to 1,212. Klein had both the Democratic and Conservative nods in the justice race.

Fred Wolven took the collector post for the GOP with 1,725 votes to Democratic conaidate Donald Ferraro's 935. Andy Aurigemma was elected two-year assessor on the GOP slate when he out-polled Democratic opponent Frank W. Lutz, 1,808 to 803.

Daniel Terpening was named Republican town councilman over Democratic Harold M. Bailey, 1,448 to 1,101 and Conservative council candidate David Fletcher who polled a slim 152.

Poughkeepsie Elects Fiore Mayor, Dutchess County GOP Scores Sweep

POUGHKEEPSIE

The Republicans swept Dutchess County, but a Democrat mayor will hold the office in Poughkeepsie.

All seven county posts up for grabs were taken handily by the GOP candidates.

Countywide, Surrogate Raymond C. Baratta, under the Republican, Conservative and Liberal banners, polled 43,937 to Democrat Morton E. Gilday's 16,730.

Republican - Conservative-Liberal Raymond Aldrich totalled 42,782 votes for County Judge to Democrat Milton Epstein's 17,244.

County Clerk J. John Hautmann, Republican-Conservative, compiled a total of 40,767 votes to 19,519 for Democrat-Liberal June Yergey.

Lawrence M. Quinlan had little to fear at the polls from J. Marvin Ong, defeating him handily 41,222 to 19,761. Quinlan ran on the Republican-Conservative ticket.

Democrat - Independent Bernard Kessler polled the largest number of votes countywide of any loser, but dropped the race for District Attorney to Albert Rosenblatt 36,272 to 22,705.

In voting for Ninth Judicial District Justice of the Supreme Court, Republican Leonard Rubenfeld won with 32,391 votes. Democrat-Liberal Leo Raines was second with 21,530, and Conservative Charles Vosguanian trailed at 3,190.

Dutchess County Executive David Schoentag estimated the voter turnout as "very good" for an off-year election. Of a registered 88,000 voters, about 65,000 exercised their choice at the polls.

Status Quo in Wawarsing, Rochester

By BRUCE KAUFMAN

ELLENVILLE

The Republican party registered victories in the southwest Ulster County townships of Wawarsing and Rochester running strongly in the former and sweeping all town posts in the latter.

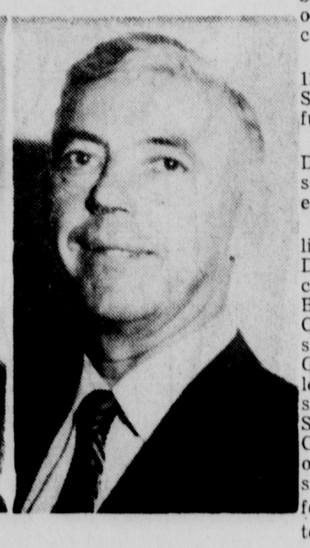

In the Town of Wawarsing the political balance of power remained essentially the same with the Democrats maintaining the three positions they held going into the election.

Incumbent town clerk, Kenneth Mitchell, 2473, easily defeated his Republican challenger, George Green, 1524. Incumbent tax collector, Bertha Gorman, 2004, defeated GOP Challenger Janet Shildkret, 1776, and Frank Sahler topped a field of four candidates vying for two councilman seats on the town board with 2327 votes.

The Republicans in Wawarsing won four contests. Incumbent Supervisor Frank Harkin, 2328, defeated Democrat Joseph Sstoeckler, 1563; incumbent highway superintendent, Karl Fleckenstein, 2109, defeated Democrat William Clark; Maurice Rosentock, 2052, defeated Democrat Edward Schor, 1720 for town justice, and incumbent Frank Greco, 2254, was the other successful candidate for councilman.

FRANK HARKIN

FRANKLIN KELDER

Republican Murry Weisberg, 1246, and Democrat Bernie Smith, 1654, were the unsuccessful councilman candidates.

The Republicans outpolled Democratic challengers for all seven offices in Town of Rochester political activity.

Incumbent supervisor, Franklin Kelder, 843, defeated William Decker, 720; incumbent town clerk and tax collector Eileen Baker, 1312, defeated Suzanne Cohn, 260; incumbent highway superintendent, Richard T. Gray, 984, defeated Alex Tessler; incumbent four year assessor, Warry Krum, 963, defeated Same Kates 506, and Richard Countryman, 821, defeated Harold Bush, 699, for two year assessor; Harold Lipton, 996, defeated William Brush, 561, for town justice, and incumbent town councilman, Joseph W. Lee, a Democrat, was defeated by Republican, Charles Logan by a vote of 794 to 762.

Schneider Captures Victory in New Paltz

NEW PALTZ

Three of the races were accomplished facts. New Paltz Supervisor Anthony Moriello, Town Clerk Theodore Lasher, and Highway Superintendent David Decker, were endorsed by both the Democrats and Conservatives, in addition to their Republican colleagues.

The closest contest was between incumbent Town Justice Rexford Schneider and his Democratic challenger Arthur Bouchard. Scheider won 1321 to 1083.

In the other contested races, Republicans won easily. Incumbent councilman, Walter Dyer, 1483, defeated Democrat, Robert Johnston, 904; incumbent two year assessor, Fred Dressel, 1642, defeated Democrat Albert Liuni, 709; and Nicholas Badami, 1393, defeated Democrat, Howard Simpson, 966, for the position of two year assessor.

Kingston Town Elects Dem As Supervisor

SAWKILL

The newly elected Democratic supervisor of the Town of Kingston, Donald Dolan must work with a Republican Town Board for the coming year.

Incumbent GOP Robert Ferrigan was reelected and James D. Miller, running for the other justice post won the seat for the Republicans.

Incumbent Republican Supervisor Donald Patton lost by nine votes. Totals according to unofficial returns were 157 to 148 for Patton, which included 21 Conservative votes.

GOP Town Clerk Edward Seche Jr., defeated Democrat Joseph Cardock by 238 to 58. Seche also polled 22 Conservative votes.

Mrs. Hazel Burton, GOP tax collector won by more than 2 to 1 over Democrat Margaret Kay.

Roderick Stanfield, Republican won the three-way race for superintendent of highways by polling 198 against Democrat Thomas Lagano, 51 and Conservative Louis Bolter 41.

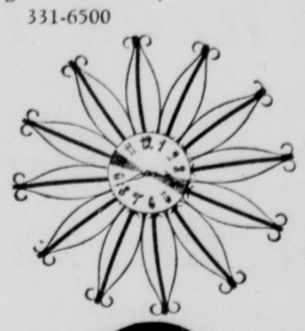

Incumbent GOP Assessor Joseph Carcaramo polled 194 votes to win over Democrat Robert Miggins, who tallied 100.

Sabino Looks Towards Future After Leading Ulster Ticket

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
TOWN OF ULSTER

Carmine Sabino, GOP winner for the Town of Ulster's supervisor post, in the wake of a Republican sweep, expressed his thanks to his workers and assured the residents of his town that he will make every effort to complete all town projects now before the Town board.

He stressed that he is looking toward the future needs of the town and will act positively to meet every problem as it arises.

Sabino polled 2,225 votes on the GOP line against Robert Stedge's 1,806 in unofficial returns. Conservative balloting was unavailable. Stedge, a fomer Republican town justice ran on the Democrat and Conservative tickets.

Incumbent Town Clerk Alma Macholdt led the Republican ticket with 2,980 votes. She was running unopposed.

Harold Atkins, incumbent GOP tax collector tallied 2,663 over Democrat Edmond Frawley, who polled 987.

Town Superintendent of Highways Edgar P. Elliott, incumbent won a 2,000 plus victory over Joseph Roches, Democrat , who polled 940. Elliott was the second largest vote getter with 2,950.

Incumbent Assessor Edwin F. Callahan, who is also GOP town chairman defeated William Harbig by 2,680 to 986 for the four year post.

There was a three-way race for the two-year assessor post with Republican Salvatore Castiglione polling 2,418 and Bruce Burgher, Democrat 1,323. No totals were available for Conservative James Matteo.

Former State Trooper Arthur A. Reilly was returned to the town justice post on the GOP by defeating Robert Hayes, Democrat 2,748 to 1,164 in unofficial returns.

GOP Town Councilman William D. Costello retained his seat by defeating Walter Houle, town Democratic chairman, 2,643 to 1,153. Houle also ran on the Conservative ticket.

Sabino won the supervisor's post with a 419 plurality which will be cut by the number of Conservative votes recorded by Stedge.

In 1967 Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz polled 2,694 votes against Michael Altamari's 1,486 on the Democratic line and had a plurality of 1,208.

Three Democratic Upsets in Shandaken

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
PHOENICIA

Three Democratic upsets resulted from mixed returns in all three districts of the Town of Shandaken in Tuesday's voting, with Phoenicia's First District credited with being the biggest factor in cutting into the Republican slate.

Republican town clerk candidate, Jane Rossitz, making her first run for public office, lost to Democrat Paul E. Herdman by a top-heavy 986 to 598. Herdman emerged Victorious at the polls by winning a 388 plurality over Mrs. Rossitz, the only distaffer running on either ticket in Shandaken this year.

Another Shandaken surprise was the defeat of Frank Crnkovic, the GOP's incumbent councilman. Seeking to succeed himself, Crnkovic was voted out of office in a tight contest that saw Democrat Lindsay Hoyt winning 790 to 726, a plurality of only 64 votes.

Success at Last

And in what was probably the belated success story in the county this election year, Democratic assessor candidate Nash E. Dunham won a 2-year term over Republican Russell Pyle by a margin of 815 to 706, a plurality of 109. Nash had tried for public office some nine times previously; scored his first win in Tuesday's voting.

Elsewhere on the ballot, the Republican slate of town candidates in Shandaken swept into office by varying margins. The race for supervisor resulted in the election of Raymond J. Dunn, GOP standard bearer, over Democratic hopeful Edward J. Gormley. Dunn carried all three districts of the town; netted 1,054 votes to Gormley's 635, a plurality of 419.

GOP Assessor Win

The GOP also took the 4-year assessor term with Republican Leonard Ford pulling 844 votes to the 538 cast for Democrat Thomas J. Hallenbeck, a substantial plurality of 306. Conservative Peggy Gale was in the three-way race for this spot; polled 102 votes. Other Conservative votes are not included in this compilation.

Republicans also saw their candidate for tax collector winning office. Andrew Nielsen won out over Democrat Paul R. Chauncey, 812-688, a plurality of 124.

Shandaken, which is included in the 11th Legislative District, voted overwhelmingly to return Republican-Conservative incumbent legislators Ernest J. Gardner and Philip Davis to office. Gardner and Davis polled 712 and 670 respectively, while the Democrat-Liberal team of Robert E. Smith and Burton H. Marshall polled 447 and 443 respectively.

Republican candidates on the county level were also popular winners in Shandaken. For county cerk, Republican Albert Spada received 702 votes to 407 for Democrat Willis H. Raff. Incumbent GOP coroner, William S. Keyser, polled 706 to 413 for Democrat Myron Kutcher.

Schovel Thanks Voters After Saugerties Win

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN
SAUGERTIES

Democratic incumbent Supervisor A. Michael Schovel in a short statement after winning a second term in the traditionally Republican Town of Saugerties, expressed his thanks to the voters for their confidence in him and said he would elaborate in a future statement.

Schovel, who operates his own tree and landscaping business won by a 1,530 plurality over Horace F. Emerick, retired postal employe, who ran on the GOP ticket. The totals in unofficial returns gave Schovel 3,688 which includes 421 Conservative votes, to Emerick's 2,158. Schovel's plurality over Peter M. Williams two years ago was 609.

The Saugerties results were similar to those of two years ago when the electorate named a Democratic supervisor and two Republican town councilmen. The voters also split the County Legislature representatives with two Democrats and two Republicans.

In the hotly contested race for the two town councilmen seats, the Republicans won both, leaving the political makeup of the Town Board the same as the last two years 4 to 1.

Incumbent Republican Francis J. Hallion Sr. and GOP newcomer, Francis V. Myer defeated Democrats Walter L. Keefe and Howard Wittenbecher. The tally was Hallion 2,836; Myer 2,972; Keefe 2,689 and Wittenbecher 2,625. Wittenbecher, who lost election in 1967 by 18 votes when he was shaded by George Turner, Republican, polled 109 votes less in Tuesday's election.

WINNER CHECKS RETURNS — Saugerties Supervisor A. Michael Schovel (L) the lone winner on the town Democratic ticket checks returns as the final district reports. Schovel won reelection and took all 14 districts. Maurice Hinchey Jr. new town Democratic chairman savors his first victory. The Saugerties Democrats also elected two legislators to the county board. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Myer, a Mt. Marion businessman, won the seat held by Republican Robert Smith, who did not seek reelection.

William A. Woestendiek, GOP incumbent receiver of taxes won reelection over Anna M. Van Etten, Democrat 3,333 to 2,166. He also polled 352 Conservative votes.

Charles E. (Bud) Bach Jr., of West Saugerties kept the town superintendent of highways position in the GOP column by defeating Anthony Riozzi by 3,423 to 2,151. Bach also had 387 Conservative ballots. They were running for the seat held by William R. Brown, GOP incumbent, who did not seek reelection.

Town Clerk Marion E. Newkirk, running unopposed, again led the GOP ticket by polling 4,130 votes including 507 Conservative ballots. The Democrats did not field a candidate.

Also running unopposed was incumbent GOP Town Justice Calvin H. Brub Cody, who polled 4,051 which includes 483 Conservative votes.

The Republicans returned Clifford Snyder to the County Legislature and elected Charles Scala Jr. to a second seat. The incumbents, Richard Thornton and Paul M. Brazier. The unofficial returns listed the following: Thornton 3,272; Snyder 3,088; Scala 2,973; Brazier 2,936; GOP Incumbent C. Freeman Lasher 2,925, who lost his seat; Jerome Daley, GOP 2,858 and Conservative Democrats Harry S. Hoffman Jr. 2,144 and Edwin Olson 1,858. The Thornton, Brazier, Hoffman and Olson totals include Conservative ballots as follows: 421, 392, 351 and 287.

Some Surprises in Town of Olive

By TOBIE GEERTSEMA
SHOKAN

Town of Olive, long a bastion of Republicanism, has a new Democratic town board member today. He is Vincent Barringer, who won a closely contested race for town justice here, defeated his Republican opponent, E. Lee Denman by a vote of 665 to 652, a plurality of only 13.

Incumbent Democrat tax collector, Margaret Kunkle, was also returned to office, rolling up 714 votes to the 601 received by her Republican challenger, Arline Tisch.

But Republican candidates emerged victorious in all other contests at Olive's three polling places. In the race for supervisor, Frank C. Carle won handily over his Democratic opponent, Frank MacMartin by a top-heavy 832 to 503. Carle carried all three districts for a plurality of 329.

The contest for town clerk, waged between Oliver Crawford (R) and Mae Steen (D), saw Crawford capturing the office easily by a vote of 936 to 382. Carwford scored high pluralities in all three districts, rolling up winning tallies early in the evening.

Incumbent GOP superintendent of highways Marcel Maier was returned to office by a slightly less than 2-1 margin, besting his Democratic opponent, Clifford Barringer by 830 to 499.

Seeking the legislators' seats for the 11th District, of which Olive is a part, were Republican-Conservative incumbents Ernest J. Gardner and Philip Davis, and Democrat-Liberal candidates, Robert E. Smith and Burton H. Marshall. Gardner and Davis retained their seats, polling 872 and 814 respectively to defeat Marshall with 445 and Smith with 399.

Other GOP victories for town office included Herbert Wells over Democrat John Bachor 704 to 573 for councilman, and Raymond Cruthers over Henry Rank with a 645 to 586 win. In the other assessor race, James Quick (R) defeated James Donlon (D) by a vote of 705 to 618, a plurality of 87.

Republican candidates on the county level also rolled up winning margins in Olive. Voters here gave the TOP county clerk standard bearer Albert Spada, 855; cast only 390 for his Democratic opponent, William H. Raff. Incumbent coroner William S. Keyser polled 831, to win in this northern Ulster community over Democrat Myron Kutcher, who received only 393.

Majestic Wins in Gardiner

GARDINER

Veteran Gardiner Supervisor, George Majestic, a Democrat who has held this post since 1958, was an easy winner here Tuesday, despite the fact that the Republicans captured six of the eight town elective posts.

Majestic tallied 640 votes, while his GOP opponent, Louis McIntosh, a businessman, received 410 votes. Included in Majestic's total were 46 votes on the line of the controversial Anti-Sales Tax party.

Republicans won six town posts. Incumbent Town Cerk, Vivian McCord, 764, defeated Christine Taylor, Democrat 254; John Grey, 501, defeated Democrat W. Miner Franks, 458, and write-in candidate Robert Tattersoll, 28, for highway superintendent; incumbent councilman, Robert Lacouette, 536, defeated Democrat, Albert N. Becker, 389, and Conservative, Henry Liburd, 62; incumbent town justice, Samuel Stokes, 653, defeated Democrat John Bonagura, 230; incumbent tax collector, Gilbert Tice, 607, defeated Democrat Robert Stiscia, 328, and Conservative Agnes Sullivan, 57; and George Watts, 539 defeated Marcus Conklin, 447, for four year assessor.

In the Democrats' other victory, incumbent two year assessor, Thomas Murphy, 518, defeated Conservative Roger Depew, 139.

Republicans Sweep the Board In Northern Dutchess County

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK AND RHINEBECK

Election results ran true to form in both of these Northern Dutchess County Republican strongholds with Warren Simmons reelected Red Hook Supervisor and William Allen elected to a first term as Rhinebeck Supervisor.

Both Republican incumbents for District Five of the Dutchess County Board of Representatives, Madison Sipperley Jr. and Kenneth Stewart, were reelected.

And in the Town of Milan, Thomas Odak is without a political job for the first time in 20 years, as he missed out in his bid for District Six Representative to George Campbell after leaving his security as Town Supervisor.

Also in Milan, Thomas Crown became the first Republican Supervisor in 20 years in defeating Democrat Richard Laibach 330 to 311.

In Red Hook, Simmons received more competition than had been expected in defeating Democrat Richard Coons 1,385 to 708, almost a two-to-one ratio.

Other Republicans swept into town office by landslide margins were incumbent Councilman Bertrand Coons, 1,409 to 461 over Democrat Philip Tucciarone; Superintendent of Highways Harold Trow, 1,316 to 669 over Democrat Robert Bard; and unopposed Town Clerk Idella Agner, Town Justice Frank Martin, Assessors Reginald Sheffer and G. Warren Shaw, and Tax Collector Eugenia Bradley.

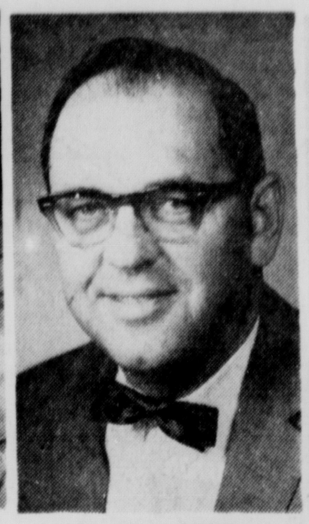

Red Hook voters gave Republicans Sipperley 1,569 votes and Stewart 1,369, while casting 501 for Democrat Robert Smith and 450 for running mate Thomas Hayes.

WARREN SIMMONS

MADISON SIPPERLEY JR.

In the Town of Rhinebeck, Republican Allen will take over the Supervisor's reins from lame duck Rowland Sharpe after trouncing Democrat Paul Gmeiner 1,304 to 380.

In the only other town office up for election, Republican Louis Asher withstood a relatively stronger thrust from Edward Gumienny, but won handily 1,080 to 551.

Other Republicans endorsed without competition were Town Justice DeWitt Gurnell, Assessors Lester Butler and Tracy Hester, and Superintendent of Highways George Wyant.

Totals on County Representatives for the total district, composed of Red Hook and Rhinebeck, were: Sipperley 2,896, Stewart 2,502, Smith 877, and Hayes 794.

Assessing Odak's downfall in the District Six election finds Pine Plains to be his nemesis. Odak outpolled George Campbell by 56 votes in Milan, by 26 votes in Stamford, but was overwhelmed by 222 votes in Pine Plains.

Stewart, one of two re-elected District Five Representatives on the County Board, is the father-in-law of James J. Tyrrell, who did not fare as well in the Kingston mayoralty race.

Marbletown and Rosendale: A Long Night for Democrats

By SHANE CROSBY

STONE RIDGE

Republican slates in Marbletown and Rosendale retained control of their town governments following Tuesday's heavy voting that saw Kenneth Smith take over the supervisor post in Stone Ridge and Gerard DeFelicis retained his position as supervisor in Rosendale.

Smith, the GOP candidate selected after the announced retirement of present supervisor Roy Webber, tallied 301 votes more than Democratic candidate William Tillson in unofficial returns.

Republican candidates in Marbletown made it on a clean sweep with clerk Lillian Quick, highway superintendent Jesse Williams, Justice Robert Diamond and councilman Edwin Schumate retaining their posts by wide margins. Town Assessors Ward Jansen and James Chick ran unopposed on the Republican ticket.

All on the Rosendale Republican slate joined DeFelicis in victory with the single exception of Nancy Hanrahan who lost to incumbent town clerk Catherine O'Leary, now the lone democrat in town office. O'Leary polled 1,095 to 734 for Hanrahan.

Elected with DeFelicis were Joan Every tax collector; Jerome Mack superintendent of highways; Ferdianad Fiedler, four-year assessor; William Farrell, two-year assessor; Raymond LeFever, Justice; and Harry Snyder incumbent councilman.

DeFelicis and LeFever were given the nod by the Conservative Party in Rosendale

Tallies in the Rosendale race showed DeFelicis over Mollenhauer, 1189 to 749; O'Leary over Hanrahan, 1,095 to 734; Every over Barbara DeStefano, 1118 to 672; Fiedler over Democrat Charles Sample, 1,002 to 635 and also over Conservative Michael Antonelli who polled 160.

In the Rosendale race for town justice, LeFever polled 1,166 over former village water commissioner Robert Sherhan, who had 700. Incumbent councilman Snyder defeated Democrat Peter Costa 835 to 552 and also Conservative Rune Karlson who received 509.

Other Marbletown races showed incumbent clerk Quick with 1,030 to Democratic candidate Dolores Graham's 484; Williams with 885 votes to Democrat Warry Bogart's 654; Diamond with 962 to opponent Joseph Stein's 490 and Edwin Schumate with 867 to Democrat Michael Redmond with 570.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, NOVEMBER 5, 1969

The Local Election

The local political campaign, now happily past, was brisk and at times caustic in the City of Kingston mayoralty race. The people have spoken.

The Ulster County Legislature will continue to be controlled by Republicans with a larger representation of Democrats. Albert Spada, incumbent county clerk and chairman of Ulster County Republican Central Committee, received an enthusiastic endorsement from the electorate as did County Coroner William S. Keyser, Republican-Conservative.

Francis R. Koenig, Democrat-Liberal, was chosen mayor by a record plurality. His running mate T. Robert Gallo, Democrat-Liberal, was returned to the post of alderman-at-large also with a record plurality. The Kingston Common Council remains in Democratic control. However, Republicans picked up three seats and now have a total of four.

City judge, Hubert Richter, Democrat-Liberal, was reelected.

The people once again displayed a deep and abiding faith in the two-party system. However, there was a clear mandate from the electorate that their choice was the candidate and what he represented and not the party line.

The now hackneyed counsel to close ranks, spoken the day after many a previous election, takes on special meaning because of the opportunities and challenges in the next two years. Far more is involved than the simple political amenities symbolized by the more or less gracious messages of concession and good wishes.

There is work to be done. Let us accept the voice of the people and do it together by joining forces in developing and executing a planned long-range program for the betterment of Kingston and Ulster County.

We offer our congratulations to the winners, and hope they will interpret the result of Tuesday's election as a signal to move ahead with the greatest speed toward the development of the community which will provide opportunities for all citizens.

The Way Up

A government report showing that one in five blue collar workers shifts to a white-collar job—even though he may take a short-term cut in income—is interesting because of the reasons they give for the change.

An improved financial situation, resulting from steadier work in white collar jobs, gets top priority. Prospects for better long-run earning opportunities are close behind.

The story was told in a Department of Labor Monthly Review. It was based on a study made by University of Wisconsin economics professors David B. Johnson and James L. Stern.

These researchers found that 39 per cent of blue collar workers making the switch moved into management and increased their base pay by 15 per cent. Others moved into professional, technical, clerical or sales work and felt they had improved their socioeconomic status as well as their earnings.

Successful employers are constantly on the alert for men who can move into managerial or technical positions. In-firm advancement assures them of managers who know their product and its advantages thoroughly.

Striking Unions in Trouble

While the nationwide idleness from the General Electric strike hurts everybody, the striking unions, too, are in deep trouble. Most of the nation's workers simply will not touch them with a 10-foot pole.

More people are working than ever — about 78 million. But the more people who go to work the more they break away from unionization. Moreover, this breakaway is not only at an all-time high today. The "won't join" gulf has constantly, increasingly and relentlessly grown wider for a full 23 years.

A look at strikes abroad is also revealing. West Germany's workers, for example, seldom strike. I found in Bonn not long ago at the Federal Statistics Office that there were only 36 strikes last year.

These involved 25,167 total strikers — less than one-seventh as many as in the current 33-state General Electric strike alone. Of that number, 23,836 struck for less than a week. Only 25,249 man-days of labor were lost in West Germany throughout 1968.

In contrast, Britain suffered 2,362 strikes and a loss of 4.6 million man-days. We had 5,055 officially declared strikes with a loss of an appalling 49 million man-days.

Meanwhile, a Gallup poll indicates that more than two-thirds of our citizens — including a majority of labor union families — favor somehow prohibiting strikes which last more than two weeks.

There has never been a grass-roots, worker-based groundswell for unionization in the United States. In simple truth, our unions today owe most of their position to an antiquated, discriminatory and doubtful law that few remember — the Wagner Act of 1935, which forced wide unionization. It was compulsory unionization, imposed from the top in a political deal with the unions' leaders.

Through this law, and within a sudden two years, union membership increased from 3.6 million to 7 million — a nearly overnight compulsory doubling of the rolls. And in all this time this was the one and only big increase.

World War II brought an influx of new workers. By the end of the war in 1945 our country's total population was 138 million. The working population was 53.8 million. Union membership totalled 14.3 million. By 1960 the labor force passed 70 million. But union membership crept up to only 17.5 million.

Today our population is 202 million. And although 78 million workers are employed, the AFL-CIO membership still stays stuck at about 14 million, and the total unionization, which includes independent unions, is hardly 20 million.

The labor force has increased more than 24 million since the war while at the same time the unions' rolls have increased less than five million.

The economy includes some 4.7 million small and medium-sized enterprises. Unionization drives have repeatedly failed with them. And the shift of our economy from production categories to service categories has further widened the union-nonunion gap.

As long ago as 1953 manufacturing, heavy industry and mining employed 17.5 million people. These categories still employ hardly more than 19.5 million — an 11 per cent increase in 16 years, or less than 1 per cent a year. But service employment has increased from 50 million to about 68 million — a 36 per cent increase. All sorts of service occupations — from car parkers to repairmen, from waitresses to store clerks — have increased by one-third since 1953. And AFL-CIO President George Meany himself admits that most hopes of unionizing them have vanished like a pricked balloon.

Also, for the first time in our history, more wives than unmarried girls are working. Our youth are getting married earlier than ever before and working wives now make up a full one-fifth of the country's entire working force. This is nearly disastrous in the unions' membership drives, for working wives are proving to be the hardest of all to unionize.

The total result is a great and glaring fact usually hidden from our public. The Unions, as at General Electric, remain congealed at the core of our economy — electrical equipment, steel, coal, cooper, rubber, automobiles, transportation, communications, etc. This position gives unions their decisive power in economic affairs, and often in political matters. But their power is clearly another case of the power of a shockingly small minority.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

If I were President...

You wouldn't like me at all. Alienation is the reward of all Presidents. First the people vote for you with fervent enthusiasm; after six months in office they begin to doubt your policies; within a year acrimonious opinions issue from the hot chimneys of editors, commentators and letters to the editor.

And yet, if I sat in that highback leather chair in the Oval Room of the White House, I know that I would be compelled to make the decisions as I would see them. For example, I would cut off all Foreign Aid at once. This would save a couple of billion. We can't keep buying the same old friends — like Turkey, Thailand and Formosa — every year.

All American ground troops would come out of Vietnam at once. I would keep the big bombers and the Mach 2 fighters at their bases, and would send a polite note to Hanoi. In it I would remind the North Vietnamese that many of their harbors and cities have been exempt from bombing, and that the exemption has just expired.

I would ask the Congress to institute price and wages controls for one year, until someone came up with a fireproof method of stopping inflation. This, of course, would anger all grocers, butchers, steel companies, automobile companies and unions. However, it would keep the American dollar from jumping off a cliff.

Every morning, I would make a loud demand that the Congress of the United States publish its own budget, item by item. No matter how many times I might be refused, I would yell louder and louder until our representatives bent to the pressure to become as honest as they expect us to be.

I would ask all states and municipalities to make it a felony for peace marchers to breach the peace. In any racial melee, touching a policeman while in the performance of his duty would net the performee five years in the can. Any rioter who refused to obey a police order would get two years in jail. Peaceful marching would be permitted, but the leaders would be asked to post bond of $50,000 to guarantee that their followers remained tranquil. Any looting — even a little bit — would mean revocation of the bond plus arrests and trials.

I would appoint a committee of promient doctors to look into the racket of veterans hospitals. They should be cut in number, size and services. Any disability not probably service-connected would be referred to the veteran's private physician.

When a vacancy occurs on the United States Supreme Court, I would request all state Supreme Court judges, and all federal judges up to and including the appellate division, to submit personal nominations. I would feel free to select one from the top three.

I would close out and stop all spurious political games: Henry Cabot Lodge and his assistants would be called home, never to return to Paris; militarily, I would keep my country strong, and encourage private industry to build incomparable weapons systems — an insurance policy against war. I would not warn Russia to keep out of Asia; I would counsel her to take all of it, including China. I would renounce the Southeast Asia Organization (Seato) pact.

Any head of a family of four or more who earns less than $7,500 a year would pay no tax. I would rescale the luckier ones — like me — so that they would pay the difference. I would end all federal aid to the National Guard, thus killing off all the department store generals.

I would not permit my wife to make public utterances, or to have a staff of publicity agents. She could stick to her proper task, bringing up me and the children to have manners, and frying the bacon. I would fire all except one good speech writer, and I would like to get on tv just once to say: "Boy, did I pull a blunder today...!"

A committee of reportorial Pultzer prize winners would be appointed to do a one-year study in the field of education. They would be asked to find a way of (1) putting the races together at the kindergarten level so that no one would feel inferior or superior to anyone else; (2) outline the wisest curricula of study for each grade up to and including the fourth year of college; (3) advise the nation how much latitude in discipline should be permitted to all teachers.

I would stop mothering Central and South America and permit these nations to administer their affairs without interference from Uncle Sam. In the U.S., legal gambling would be permitted whereever the voters license it, so long as part of the profits pour into the municipal treasury and ease the tax burden on those who do not want to gamble, or pay.

Ah, yes. The boys in the white coats would be after me — if I were President...

House Investigators Review Demo Convention TV Coverage

WASHINGTON — House investigators, after an exhaustive review of the TV coverage of last year's Democratic convention, have concluded that the TV networks seemed hostile to the Democratic party and that cautious legislation is needed to prohibit "the falsification of purportedly bona fide news events."

In a confidential, 64-page report to the House Commerce Committee, counsel Daniel Manelli and chief investigator James Kelly charge that the TV coverage seemed to present "a one-sided picture which in large measure exonerates the demonstrators and protestors."

Acknowledging that their judgments are "subjective" and that some contrary evidence is available, the staff suggests that the networks "had deliberately sought out to interview those with known biased feelings against the conduct of the convention and the city government" and "had deliberately withheld from the air film and video tape material which would have been derogatory to the demonstrators."

Suppressed Film

CBS reel 20-5, for example, showed the beginning of the conflict between the police and hippies. One of the announcers declares: "They are assaulting police lines."

"When the material was presented over the air," reports the House sleuths, "no reference was made to the above quoted remark, nor was any scene of such an assault visible. Shots of material raining down from the Hilton Hotel onto the heads of the police and news camera crews was also available but not broadcast.

"The investigators also noted footage showing police cars being stoned by the demonstrators with the police pursuing and capturing at least one of the stone throwers." In at least one scene, the police were shown in pursuit, but the provocation was omitted from the air.

Another unused CBS reel, NC23-9, shows the demonstrators in an aggressive mood. Then the voice of an announcer is heard shouting: "They're starting to throw stuff fellows. Hey, Dick, I need a helmet."

In CBS reel NC094, the demonstrators begin chanting at Democratic delegates returning from the convention. A CBS commentator reports: "The crowd has an American flag upside down, the signal of distress at sea. Most of the delegates are stunned by the scene..."

Then a voice is heard giving instructions: "Stand by for trouble. Otherwise we don't start."

Phony Bandages

Another film strip, 235-896, shows a man with a bandaged head glaring at the camera. Then a woman's voice is heard, apparently referring to the bandage: "That's not real, that's not real."

"There have been a number of allegations," adds the confidential report, "that demonstrators provided themselves with bandages for the benefit of the cameras so as to give the impression that widespread injuries had been inflicted by the police."

One witness told House investigators that he saw a demonstrator hurl a wooden sawhorse at a policeman, who charged the demonstrator, struck him and took him into custody. The witness said that only the officer's violence against the demonstrator was shown on TV as if it were an unprovoked assault. Later the book "Chicago Eyewitness" published photographs of the sawhorse in midair with the policeman's arms outstretched. The captions alleged that the officer was heaving the sawhorse at the crowd.

"Upon inspection of the photographs," assert the investigators, "it seems clear that it is the police officer who is the target of the flying sawhorse." Identified and interviewed, he confirmed that he had stretched out his arms to ward off the sawhorse not to throw it.

Bias Against Democrats

"While many of the major commentators spoke at length concerning the shock they felt concerning what was happening to the young demonstrators downtown," adds the staff report, "little or no comment was made concerning profanity, obscene signs and gestures, and physical abuse employed by the demonstratsors to provoke the police."

The report concludes: "In general, there seems to be substantial evidence of animosity by members of the television news organization against the democratic party, or at least against certain of its prominent members, and the administration of the city of Chicago.

"This seems to have been reflected in the slanting and the reporting of the events as they took place. The staff has reviewed the television news coverage, both broadcast and out-takes (unused shots), and has spoken with people who were witnesses to the disturbances in downtown Chicago.

"It does seem in retrospect that the picture presented over the networks did not place sufficent evidence before the public as to the nature and motives of the demonstrators...

"On principle, it does not seem logical to argue that the public, which is already entitled to protection against deceptive commercial messages, should not be entitled to protection against deceptive messages of a political or ideological nature."

The remedy: The staff delicately proposes legislation that would prohibit the falsification of news events without enfringing upon press freedom.

Kennedy Seeks Full Light

Welcomes 'Ordeal' by Inquiry

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy expects there will always be some critics and adversaries to keep alive the troubling matter of his July 18 accident at Chappaquiddick. But he thinks that for most others there can be a kind of cutoff date, a milestone point which largely relegates the case to history.

That is the deep-seated reason why he has now said publicly in the aftermath of a Massachusetts high court ruling on guidelines for a proposed inquest, that he wants a hearing soon and wants the full transcript of the proceedings made public.

The court directed that such proceedings be closed to press and public on grounds that the piecemeal evidence emerging daily from an open hearing might be dealt with in a manner which would unfairly damage the effect of the hearing judge's final decision.

Kennedy wants any formal inquiry to be full — to include interrogation of himself and all other principals and witnesses.

He is aware that it will inevitably be an ordeal for him and for the parents of Mary Jo Kopechne, the young former secretary to the late Robert Kennedy. Review of the incidents surrounding her death in the bridge accident at Chappaquiddick is bound to revive crushing memories.

Yet he feels that in the end it will be greatly helpful to the Kopechnes, to him, and to much of a badly puzzled public he can in future times point to the official record and the judge's decision as a conclusive and terminal thing.

It is not altogether new that he says privately that no great, damaging secrets will surface at a hearing. "There is nothing of that sort which is going to come out," he has often remarked.

What will emerge, etched in painful specifics, is a fuller story — a version not controlled by him or immunized from official probing — that will lay out the postaccident chaos that led him, on nationwide television, to label his own behavior that night to be "indefensible."

He still lays that charge heavy upon himself. But it would be apparent to anyone that he lives today on a different plane than that he plunged to in the first cruel aftermath of Chappaquiddick.

He is a man of enormous resilience, with an instinct to go on and find a way to live with both mental and physical pain — an instinct finely sharpened by the assassination of his two celebrated brothers, the deaths of others in his family, and his own narrow escape from death in a plane crash in 1964.

Ted Kennedy has always loved the work of the Senate. Strong issues and causes, many totally his own, some taken over from his fallen brothers, have always engaged him.

He is back at these matters now, confident of his abilities, driven to pursue his interests, driven to make each day count for something. No clear rebuffs have been delivered against any of his favored causes. Rather he has had some successes on issues like money for student loans and help for poverty-ridden Indians.

In his job as whip, there was a touchy period when some senators held aloof from any close contact. Time is changing that.

Accustomed to the warmth of a very wide cirlce of Senate friends, Kennedy hopes it will again open up to its fullest dimensions when the legal proceedings over the accident are complete — possibly by the year's end.

In the meantime, he is an unshakable candidate for reelection in 1970. He will be visiting his state roughly once every 10 days, talking of his constituents' current concerns, now and then seizing a chance to talk broadly of the war, the economy, health and other national issues. But on national politics the promise is only silence.

Delay Vietnam Withdrawal Fearful Asian Nations Ask

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It has not been announced and probably will not be, but the Indonesians have quietly asked the United States to stay three more years in South Vietnam.

They need this temporary shield against infiltration, they say, to give them time to stabilize their government and economy. After 1972, they believe, they will be able to hold their own.

President Suharto's government has made remarkable strides since the abortive Communist try at taking over Indonesia Sept. 30, 1965. But the task has been complicated by ex-President Sukarno's decade and a half of economic and political mismanagement and by the deep penetrations into high officialdom made by the Communists before their attempted coup.

The Cambodians recently have secretly sought help from the South Vietnamese (at whom they had been shouting suspiciously for years) to enable them to stand against growing North Vietnamese-Viet Cong encroachment.

The Cambodians have grown so worried over the steady growth of Hanoi and VC political agents, guerrillas and mainline troops on their soil and over persistent Communist subversion in their villages, that they have pushed old fears of Saigon aside.

It is understood that aides of Prince Norodom Sihanouk have also approached the United States for help.

It is no secret that the liberal nationalist Prince Souvanna Phouma, prime minister of Laos, during his recent trip to Washington made it crystal clear he wants the United States to stay in Vietnam until some settlement is reached which guarantees the integrity of both Laos and South Vietnam.

Last year the liberal prime minister of Singapore, Lee Kuan Yew, much to the surprise of his fellow liberals worldwide, said the United States in South Vietnam was also fighting for the freedom of Singapore.

In March this year, in Seoul, this reporter was assured by liberal and conservative South Korean students, professors and religious leaders that the safety of South Korea, threatened by North Korea, depended on our jointly continuing the fight for the independence of South Vietnam. Again, the South Koreans want to buy time. Their economic and military strength is growing steadily.

This reporter's contacts in Thailand, both in the government and in the political opposition, never fail to stress the point their problems would become unbearable if the United States sold South Vietnam down the river.

Like the Indonesians, these Thai contacts believe their country can handle the internal Communists if the United States wins them time in Vietnam and Laos.

Clean Air and Water

Editor, The Freeman:

I am glad that Americans are finally beginning to realize what we are doing to our skies and our water. In parts of California it is dangerous to even breathe. If a stagnant air mass hits New York State like one did in the month of November several years ago many persons will die. The use of DDT on farms and near streams kill millions of fish and animals. When oil covered the Santa Barbara coast millions of more fish and animals were killed. Many persons die because of foul air and foul water. We must prevent factories from dumping waste products in our rivers and streams. We must prevent factories from letting poisonous gases escape into our atmosphere. The sky is a dirty color; the water smells of garbage and dead fish.

I hope that all readers will inform their Congressmen, Senators and state leaders that they are in favor of cleaning our air and our rivers.

The American Flag

Editor, The Freeman:

The United States Flag is the third oldest of the National Standards of the world, and was first flown from Fort Stanwix, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. on August 3, 1777. The Flag was first authorized by Congress June 14, 1777. This date is now observed as Flag Day throughout America.

The colors of the Flag may thus be explained: The red is for valor, zeal and fervency; the white for hope, purity, cleanliness of life, the blue, the color of heaven for reverence to God, loyalty, sincerity, justice and truth.

The symbolism of the Flag was interpreted by George Washington as follows: "We take the stars from Heaven, the red from our mother country, separating it by white stripes, thus showing that we have separated from her, and the white stripes shall go down to posterity representing Liberty."

The name "Old Glory" as it was given by Captain William Driver has been through many battles and has flown over many foreign territories. "Old Glory" was first carried in battle at the Brandywine, September 11, 1777. Ever victorious, it has emerged triumphant from eight National Conflicts. It flew at Saratoga, at Yorktown, at Palo Alto, at Gettysburg, at Manila Bay, at Chateau-Thierry, and at Iwo Jima.

The American Flag embodies the essence of patriotism. Its spirit is the spirit of the American nation. Its history is the history of the American people. Emblazoned upon its folds in the letters of living light are the names and fame of our heroic dead, the Fathers of the republic who devoted upon its altars their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor.

The United States Flag is unique in the deep and noble significance of its message to the entire world, a message of national independence, of individual liberty, of idealism, of patriotism.

It symbolizes national independence and popular sovereignty. It is not the Flag of a reigning family or royal house, but of 200 million free people welded into a nation, one and inseparable, united not only by community of interest, but by vital unity of sentiment and purpose: a Nation distinguished for the clear individual conception of its citizens alike of their duties and their privileges, their obligations and their rights.

God Bless America and its Flag. May it wave on forever.

For God and Country,

Fair Coverage

Editor, The Freeman:

Because I am a former classmate of Frank Koenig at Siena College, I have followed the mayorality campaign in the pages of your newspaper for the past weeks.

There is no question that your coverage has been fair to all candidates.

One observation that is quite clear is that Frank Koenig continues to possess the enthusiasm and dedication that was evident in numerous basketball games during Siena days and later, up and down the Hudson Valley.

I believe the citizens of Kingston will benefit greatly when Frank brings these qualities to the office of mayor.

Respectfully,

True Patriots

Editor, The Freeman:

In recent letters, Mrs. Sylvia Day has maintained the North Vietnamese and their Viet Cong allies are the true patriots of Vietnam. If this is true why did they dispose of 1,500 residents of the city of Hue when they liberated them from the forces of oppression.

Some of these victims were still breathing when the good earth covered them.

Conscientious Objector

Editor, The Freeman:

A national magazine recently featured a story about a conscientious objector—the son of a prominent man. Reading through this article it appeared that this young man's mother was pleased by her son's attitude toward "The War." It must be very difficult for mothers whose dead soldier sons lie in cold graves to read such words.

A country worth living in is surely worth fighting for. There are many living Vietnam veterans who did not wish to leave their homes and loved ones, who hate war and the useless slaughter of humanity. There are scores of dead soldiers who took their last breath in the mud and muck of a foreign soil. Chronologically mere boys.

When my 21-year-old cousin died in this manner last spring I doubted my own patriotism, and as I sorrowfully watched his aching family lovingly and gently bury him in the soil of his country I asked why did these boys, turned into proud men by a cruel war, have to die?

Americans abhor war and its suffering. We strive to be a peace loving nation and although envied we are known for our generosity and humaneness throughout the world. However, we Americans also enjoy luxury and wealth. Thus the Vietnam war appears to be a never ending attempt to maintain our economy as well as to bolster the economy of our ally, South Vietnam.

Therefore it appears that our young men must leave our shores in order to: defend us from encroaching Communism by maintaining our great economy, unfortunately, through warfare.

Throughout history mankind has felt the necessity of war with a neighboring nation in order to maintain at least, its own financial security. Thus, war appears throughout human history as an economic solution to internal and external problems and until man gives his last for power, prestige and wealth, he will be plagued with occasional war.

In order to attain and maintain global peace, our nation must remain strong. For only a strong nation can foster charity and gentleness. We must continue the struggle for freedom, and inspire our young to love and respect God and this great nation. We must not despair and turn from our enemies. Communism, indifference, and cowardice. Our young soldiers must not die in vain.

Realistically, until all men truly regard one another with dignity, respect and brotherhood: There will be war. Our youth cannot change this fact by protesting or using drugs. Rather, they must have inspiration to be proud of themselves as human beings, to act like members of their own sex, instead of masculine girls and effiminate boys: A trend of our present era.

A conscientious objector cannot change the course of war, a soldier who has pride in himself and in his nation may.

Long live our present patriots!

West Germany Faces Winter of Content

By TOM CULLEN
NEA European Correspondent

DUSSELDORF, West Germany — (NEA) — This is the winter of West Germany's discontent.

On paper, West Germany never had it so good. Soaring production figures, huge export orders, Europe's most stable currency — these are some of the fruits of the so-called economic miracle. So are the Volkswagens and color television sets which the average worker enjoys.

However, alongside the boom, this country faces coal shortages, power failures and wildcat strikes this winter.

Millions of Germans will shiver with cold and grope their way around in the dark during the winter months, due to a million-ton coal shortage. Their trains may not run on time, or their mail may not be delivered because of lightning strikes by disgruntled public service employes.

Government officials, employers and trade unions all are to blame for the present muddle and confusion.

Take the coal shortage, for example. In the absence of a coherent energy policy, the federal government has allowed 78 coal mines, producing 53 million tons of coal annually, to be closed down during the past 10 years. Coke ovens were dismantled and 285,000 coal miners, over half the total labor force, were dispersed to other industries due to government shortsightedness.

As a result, not only will households shiver without coal this winter, but the steel plants of the Ruhr are faced with the prospect of working at half capacity. Meanwhile, coal prices have risen by 10 to 19 per cent.

Or take the trade unions. Up to now, West Germany has had fewer work stoppages than any country in western Europe. The German Labor Federation has kept a tight rein on its 6.5 million members, who are organized into 16 industrial unions. Strike action has been avoided by promptly referring disputes to arbitration courts. But now all of this has changed.

Early in September, a wave of wildcat strikes spread through heavy industry. It began in the steel plants of North Rhine-Westphalia, where workers downed tools without consulting their union and promptly won an 11 per cent wage increase.

The wildcats then spread to 370,000 coal miners in the Ruhr and Saar regions, who likewise won a pay increase.

Government Rejects Permit for Anti-War Protest March

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has rejected a permit for a mass march from the Capitol to the White House Nov. 15 to culminate what is being billed as the largest antiwar protest in history.

Only "a small symbolic parade" will be allowed, the Justice Department announced Tuesday night, citing "reliable reports" some demonstrators plan to "foment violence or to stage confrontations."

A department spokesman claimed "coordinated and effective law enforcement would be impossible" if "any serious violence" should erupt along the Pennsylvania Avenue route.

Immediately, the New Mobilization Committee, sponsor of the anti-Vietnam protests planned for Nov. 13-15, denied the charge and accused department officials of negotiating in bad faith.

Meanwhile, some demonstration leaders suggested Tuesday their protest would be swelled by new recruits unhappy with what they termed "the hard line" taken by President Nixon in his Monday night Vietnam policy speech.

They earlier had forecast as many as 500,000 persons would take part in the massive protest.

Two weeks of negotiations between the government and New Mobilization representatives broke off Monday because of a stalemate over the planned mass march finale.

But Ron Young, co-director of the project, suggested the department's refusal to allow a massive demonstration is a "delaying tactic" designed to make it "much more difficult for us to do all the necessary planning and coordination for the event."

In rejecting the permit, the Justice Department said it balanced "the First Amendment rights" of protestors to "hold a hopefully peaceful demonstration" against "the rights of the citizens of Washington to be assured that the city will remain peaceful if there is an influx of the 500,000 persons some sponsors claim may participate."

While rebuffing plans for the mass march, the government offered to permit a 40-hour "March Against Death," scheduled to start late Nov. 13 and end just before the major protest.

That plan calls for 50,000 persons to march in files of twos from Arlington National Cemetery, down Pennsylvania Avenue in front of the White House and then to the Capitol grounds.

Woman Hurt In Collision

CONNELLY

Margaret Bennett of Mary's Avenue, this community, was injured shortly after 2:15 Tuesday, when the car she was driving was in collision with another vehicle on Mary's Avenue. She was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance.

Kingston state police reported the woman sustained a possible whiplash of the neck and bruises. The other car was owned by Fred L. Schramme of 73 Westbrook Place, Kingston.

Democrats Make

Gardiner — Chairman of the Legislature, Peter J. Savago, a Republican, was returned to his post with a vote of 2,231. He was outpolled by Republican-Conservative Louis Bevier who received 2,326 votes. While Bevier ran alone, Savago was opposed by Democrat candidate and former state senatorial candidate A. E. Woolley who lost with 1,426 votes.

District 9 (Plattekill, Shawangunk, Marlborough and Lloyd — District 9 went solid Republican reelecting three incumbent and two new legislators to the five seats. Republican-Conservative Brian R. White came out on top with 4,454 votes. James Palen, a new GOP candidate came in second with 4,385, with Conservative endorsement. Incumbent Republican Eugene K. Noe was next with 4,359; incumbent Eugene Corey followed with 4,144 and another GOP newcomer, Ralph Brach won with 4,100 votes. Ten contenders sought the five seats.

District 10 (Wawarsing) — Democrats picked up one of the three Republican seats in this district with former Supervisor George Barthel nosing out the incumbent Republican Robert Kuhlmann. Barthel received 2,019 votes. Topping that number was incumbent Republican Frank Muller who received 2,034. Another incumbent GOP legislator, Lawrence D. Craft also won with 1,963 votes. The race for three legislative seats attracted eight candidates including three Conservatives.

District 11 (Rochester, Denning, Hardenburgh, Shandaken and Olive) — The two incumbent Republican-Conservative legislators were both reelected. Philip Davis received 1,484 votes and Ernest John Gardner polled 1,584. Four candidates sought the two offices.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this time to thank everyone for their cards, letters and prayers. Also for the beautiful flowers received during my stay in the Kingston Hospital. My sincere appreciation to Dr. Harry H. Janssen and Dr. John R. Roberts, to the hospital staff, nurses, lab technicians and many others. Also to those who donated blood for me. May God bless each and everyone of you. Thank You.

Accord Man Arrested on Burglary Count

ELLENVILLE

A 41-year-old Accord man was charged with third degree burglary Tuesday afternoon, soon after state troopers reportedly caught him in a house trailer near the State Police barracks here.

William R. Cruikshank was arraigned before Wawarsing Town Justice Frank Spada. He was committed to the county jail in lieu of $1,000 bail pending a hearing tonight.

State Police said they were notified by a neighbor that a man had entered the trailer home of May Heisler. They said they found the defendant in the act of burglarizing the home.

Glasco Man Arrested. Cited By City Ptl.

KINGSTON

Donald R. Cole, 22, of Delaware Street, Glasco, was arrested early today by Officer Larry Stead, who accused the defendant of annoying him on Broadway at West O'Reilly Street. Cole was booked for harassment.

Stead also cited the man for operating an unregistered motor vehicle. The case was scheduled for City Court.

In Court on Tuesday, Joanne Naccarato, 22, of 160 Washington Avenue, received a 150-day conditional discharge after pleading guilty to harassment. She was cited Monday by Curtis VanDemark who accused her of using profanity. The conditional discharge is similar to probation.

Arrested on Drug Charge

CATSKILL

A 19-year-old Greene County youth was arrested Tuesday by State Police on a charge of possessing an implement capable of administering narcotics.

Thomas Michael Dignam of Sunrise Motel, Athens, pleaded guilty before Town Justice George Carl. In lieu of payment of a $50 fine he was committed to the Greene County jail.

Trooper N. J. Pazin of Leeds stopped Dignam as he drove along the Leeds-Athens Road for a routine check, and reportedly found the youth in possession of a pipe.

Memoriam

In loving memory of Jack T. Leiching who passed away November 5, 1968.

One lonely year has passed,
Since God called you home to rest,
A beautiful memory dearer than gold,
Of a son and brother whose worth can never be told.
His devotion, his patience, his kind understanding,
His gentle voice, so sweet a smile,
And a heart that was purer than gold,
Are memories time cannot erase.
As long as we live, we will treasure his name.
In our hearts a memory is kept,
Of a loved one we'll never forget.

Approval Likely for Four State Amendments

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Four proposed amendments to the State Constitution appeared headed for approval early today with almost half of the state's election districts reporting.

Returns were slow in coming as most attention was focused on mayoral and other local elections. In many cases, the amendments were ignored by the voters.

Of the amendments, there was a slight doubt about the passage of only one — the proposal seeking to broaden the borrowing power of the Job Development Authority. New York voters had turned down similar requests twice before.

This amendment, however, held a favorable majority of 798,724 to 420,779 in the 6,195 districts that reported.

Returns were being awaited from the state's 7,543 other election districts, including most of New York City and all of Long Island.

The voters have given substantial approval to the other three amendments, which would:

—Authorize state and local governments to lend money for construction or expansion of privately operated hospitals.

—Write a so-called Conservation Bill of Rights to spell out the state's present commitment to preserving its natural resources, including agricultural lands, set forth mandates to work toward noise abatement.

—Permit the state to use the federal census figures, which include alien residents, when reapportioning the state legislature. At present, the Constitution excludes aliens and in the past the state has been forced to contract for special cenuses —at the cost of up to $1 million.

Partial counts for the hospitals amendment showed a favorable vote of 1,001,275 to 318,141; for the conservation amendment, 965,744 to 289,910, and for the census amendment, 767,623 to 392,203.

The job Development Authority amendment asked permission to increase the agency's state-guaranteed borrowing capacity from the present $50 million limit to a new maximum of $150 million.

The authority sells bonds and uses proceeds to make low-interest loans to marginal businesses unable to obtain financing through normal channels. The intention is to spur commercial development and to provide more employment for New York residents.

Opponents contended that the state should not jeopardize its credit rating by backing marginal business enterprises at a time when interest rates on all borrowing are rising.

Rockefeller, who fathered the original program, has campaigned hard for the amendment, saying that the authority's present bond capacity is about used up. Unless the bond capacity is increased, he said, the agency will be crippled.

GOP Seizes Key Statehouses, Big City Results Are Mixed

United Press International

Republican candidates captured the governorships of New Jersey and Virginia from Democrats in Tuesday's elections and sent President Nixon's political stock soaring.

Results were mixed in big city elections, where racial tensions and the law-and-order issue dominated the campaigns. Mayor John V. Lindsay was re-elected in New York. Cleveland re-elected a black mayor but in Detroit, a black candidate was beaten in a tight contest.

The Democrats re-elected Carl B. Stokes, only elected Negro mayor of a major American City, in Cleveland, the nation's eighth largest in Louisville, Ky., and Syracuse, N.Y., the Democrats turned out incumbent Republican administrations.

Lindsay, denied renomination by the Republican party, was re-elected as the Liberal party and independent candidate but with less than a majority of the vote. His law-and-order opponents were Democratic City Controller Mario A. Procaccino, who finished second, and Republican State Sen. John J. Marchi, also the Conservative party nominee, who ran a weak third.

Both Candidates Democrats

In Detroit, the nation's fifth largest city, Roman S. Gribbs, Wayne County sheriff, and son of a Polish immigrant farmer, defeated Richard H. Austin, county auditor and a black, in a close nonpartisan contest which divided the city largely along racial lines. Both candidates are Democrats.

In New Jersey, Rep. William T. Cahill won over former Gov. Robert B. Meyner by a margin of about 3 to 2 to restore the governorship of that state to the GOP for the first time in 16 years.

Republican A. Linwood Holton, a loser four years ago, defeated Democrat William C. Battle, a Kennedy administration ambassador, to give the GOP the governorship of Virginia for the first time in a century. Both are moderates within their parties. Holton polled about 53 per cent of the vote and Battle 45, with the balance going to splinter party candidates.

Nixon staked personal prestige on the outcome of the New Jersey and Virginia contests and made his first political appearances since the 1968 campaign in behalf of Cahill and Holton last week. He telephoned congratulations to both before midnight.

Gives GOP 32-18 Margin

The two state victories gave the GOP 32 to 18 margin over the Democrats in governorships and left the Democrats with only Texas among the nation's most populous States. Holton's victory also puts Republicans in governorships of three of the 11 once-solidly Democratic Dixie states.

These victories also went far to offset the damage suffered by the GOP in losing three congressional seats in special elections earlier this year.

In New Jersey Tuesday, Republican Eugene Boyle made a surprisingly strong showing against Democrat Robert A. Roe for a vacant Democratic seat in the House. The final count showed Roe with a margin of about 1,000 votes but faced with a recount in some precincts.

New Jersey voters rejected a proposal to give the vote to 18 year-olds. Ohio turned down a proposal to extend the vote to 19-year-olds.

Is Without Authority

Lindsay's victory gave him the eminent position of mayor of the nation's largest city but without authority to speak for a major political party. Nixon, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and the national GOP organization had endorsed Marchi, who polled barely more than a fifth of the vote.

In Cleveland, Stokes won another close contest as he had two years ago by attracting enough white voters—about 20 per cent—to go along with his almost 100 per cent backing from the Negro community.

In Pittsburgh, City Councilman Peter F. Flaherty, who defeated the city organization candidate in the Democratic primary, easily won over Republican John K. Tabor.

In Louisville, Ky., former Democratic Congressman Frank W. Burke won the mayoral contest from John P. Sawyer, Republican businessman. The Republicans had held the job for eight years.

Long Foe Troy Rule Broken by Democrats

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats broke 30-years of Republican domination in Rensselaer County Tuesday and elected three city councilmen in a climax to political infighting and a state probe of city governmental operations.

Democrats gained at least 11 of the 15 seats on the county legislature, ousted County Clerk Martin B. Stack and defeated Troy Mayor Lawrence D. Meyer and Councilman Frank E. Popp, two critics of city manager Adrian Gonyea. Gonyea resigned a week before the election.

Democrats also turned out the county judge, surrogate, county treasurer and sheriff.

Republicans still control the Troy council, 4-3.

The Democratic election sweep followed hearings by the State Investigation Commission into alleged corruption in Troy city government. A preliminary report issued by the state investigative body charged that political considerations motivated city officials rather than public concern.

Last week in submitting his resignation, Gonyea charged that Stack, Popp and Meyer had kept him from performing the duties of his office. He called for their defeat.

Gonyea, a Republican and former college teacher, said "it was a great victory for the citizens of Troy."

Other Republicans turned out of office in the Democratic landslide were County Judge Lawrence Bizzarro, Surrogate John Mirch, County Treasurer James Brahan and Sheriff Harold E. Harriman.

Voters elected Democrat Edward Connelly to the Troy council, defeating Republican candidate George Breen.

When Gonyea resigned his $18,500 a year job to return to teaching, he told a news conference he was "not interested in running a corrupt city."

Scout Council Pow Wow Saturday

KINGSTON — Cub Scout leaders in Greene and Ulster Counties are in for a good time and an informative afternoon Saturday, Nov. 15.

That is the day, according to Dr. Clement Angstrom, Council Leadership Training chairman, when the Rip Van Winkle Council, B.S.A., will present its annual Cub Leaders' Pow-Wow. The Pow-Wow is a one day training experience and is designed to give Cub leaders, Den Mothers, Committeemen — new or experienced — valuable ideas and know-how for putting on a better program for their Dens or Packs.

This year's Pow Wow will be held at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Wurts and Rogers Streets in Kingston, from 1 to 5 p.m.

This "fun-way" of Cub training offers a variety of subjects for the trainees to choose from. Handicraft is the perennial favorite of the Den Mothers. In this section, trainees get detailed instructions in the "how" of six different crafts, as well as myriad ideas and variations on the main themes. The sections on "Games" and "Skits and Ceremonies" are valuable to both Den Mothers and Cubmasters and assistants. Webelos Den leaders will find the session on "The Webelos Den" informative and helpful as they plan the program for their Webelos Scouts. When a Cub Scout becomes 10 years of age, he is placed in a Webelos Den, under the leadership of a man, and with a program which eventually leads to the rank of Tenderfoot Scout in a troop of the boy's choice. The section on "Pack Administration" is most valuable to the men in a Cub Pack organization — Cubmasters and committee personnel, with particular emphasis on Pack committee chairmen.

Dr. Angstrom announced that this year's Pow-Wow is under the chairmanship of Ernest Smith, Cubmaster of Pack 10 in Kingston. Assisting Smith will be Robert Tremper, Webelos Den leader of Pack 26, Port Ewen; Erwin Tate, district commissioner of Mohican Trail District; Theodore Blankechan, Cubmaster of Pack 9 in Kingston; Mrs. Norma Dapp, Den Leader coach with Pack 70 of Highland; and William Ellett, Cubmaster of Pack 100, Palenville. Also assisting will be John D. Vliet of Catskill, member of the Council's professional staff who serves as advisor to the training committee. Other members of the Pow-Wow staff will be announced at a later date.

The registration desk at the Pow-Wow will be open at 12:15 Nov. 15. A nominal registration fee will be charged each trainee to cover the cost of materials used, training certificates, refreshments, etc. Sessions will be operating from 1 to 5 p.m. with a mid-afternoon "refreshment break" at 3 p.m. Training certificates will be presented at the closing ceremonies at 4:45 and trainees will be "homeward bound" by 5 p.m.

Stewart Base To Be Topic of Regional Meet

POUGHKEEPSIE — A special meeting of the Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council will be held next Thursday, at 1:30 p. m. in the County Executive Board Room, 22 Market Street, Poughkeepsie.

The purpose of the meeting shall be to discuss and resolve the position of the Mid-Hudson Inter-County Council relating to the Federal government's closing of Stewart Air Force Base at Newburgh, Orange County.

To Meet on The Inquest

EDGARTOWN, Mass. (AP) — James A. Boyle of District Court will meet Thursday with attorneys for prospective witnesses at the inquest into Mary Jo Kopechne's death.

Presumably, the private conference is intended to give Judge Boyle an opportunity to explain new rules for the inquest established by the state Supreme Court.

The state Supreme Court has ordered the inquest closed to the press and public as asked by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

The inquest is to determine the legal cause of Miss Kopechne's death. She was found dead July 19 in a car, owned by the senator, which had plunged off a bridge into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island off the Massachusetts coast.

Young Marines to Saugerties

KINGSTON — Plans are being formulated by the Ulster County Young Marines to organize Company B in Saugerties, and officers anticipate the arrangements will be advanced sufficiently within a few weeks to begin activities in that community.

Gilbert E. Gray, commanding officer, and John Ray Mayone, executive officer of the unit, reported the Young Marine color guard is preparing to take part in the color ceremony at the 22nd Annual Marine Ball on Nov. 22.

The entire Young Marine unit plans to make a trip to West Point Saturday, Nov. 8, to tour the grounds and watch the parade. The unit also will conduct a recruit graduation ceremony on Monday, Nov. 24, at which 30 Boots will have completed their basic training.

The Young Marines recently observed the first birthday of the unit's mascot, PFC Jiggs, at a party held at the Kate Walton Field House.

Veterans Day Rites Slated

WEST SHOKAN — A special Veterans Day service will be held at the Town of Olive monument, West Shokan, Nov. 11 at 10:45 a.m.

The service is jointly sponsored by the Olive Memorial American Legion Post 1627 and by the Dudley Palen Post 9595, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The public may attend.

"...and after you unload the washing machine and you carry the heavy basket upstairs and out back and put up the clothesline, find the pins and then stoop and hang and stoop and hang until you think your back's going to break and after that you sit around hoping things will dry before it starts to rain or the kids splash mud or some bird–well, you know–and if you're lucky, in three or four hours you can go out and take them all off again and lug everything inside–THEN you're ready to start ironing. Stiffest Test for Viets Yet, Face Reds on Cambodia Line

SAIGON (UPI) —The South Vietnamese army has taken over the fight against the 7,000-man Communist threat along the Cambodian border in one of the stiffest tests of its combat ability.

Military sources said today 2,500 government troops battled part of the North Vietnamese buildup all day Tuesday, killing 80 guerrillas while losing 24 dead and 38 wounded themselves.

The Saigon soldiers—two infantry battalions, a ranger battalion and an armored cavalry battalion—were rushed into the border highlands 120 miles northeast of Saigon in the past three days.

U.S. warplanes and artillery supported the South Vietnamese but no large American units were involved in the fight—the formula President Nixon is aiming for in the fight—the formula President Nixon is aiming for in his "Vietnamization" program.

The fighting Tuesday erupted eight miles southwest of Duc Lap, a U.S. Green Beret camp, and 25 miles from where the North Vietnamese buildup drove Allied troops and three U.S. artillery bases Sunday.

Military sources said the North Vietnamese threat included Hanoi's 28th and 66th infantry regiments, the outfits that besieged the Ben Het Special Forces camp for 56 days last spring.

The North Vietnamese have established a forward command post, to direct the new campaign, near Bu Prang, a sister camp to Duc Lap about 15 miles south along the border, the sources said.

Still farther south, seven waves of B52 bombers raided even more Communist border bivouacs northwest and north of Saigon during the night, hitting back for widespread guerrilla attacks the night before.

According to Allied intelligence, the Communists' new border offensive took shape about two weeks ago when North Vietnamese units began moving from their camps in Cambodia into South Vietnam.

During the weekend, using conventional artillery for the first time in four months, they drove Allied troops from U.S. fire bases Kate, Annie and Susan near Bu Prang and spread their influence southward.

Early Tuesday, the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese tried but failed to overrun four U.S. camps within 75 miles of Saigon and shelled 45 targets across the nation in their heaviest shellings in three weeks.

Analysis on Nixon--All Out by '70 End

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon appears to have bound himself tighter than before to a possible pullout of all U.S. ground combat troops from Vietnam by the end of 1970.

This conclusion grows out of an analysis of Nixon's report Monday night placed against the background of his statements on the question last June.

While refusing to announce a withdrawal timetable, Nixon told the nation progress in training South Vietnamese forces and an easing of enemy battlefield activity "has been greater than we anticipated when we started" the pullout program.

"As a result, our timetable for withdrawal is more optimistic now than when we made our first estimates in June," the President said.

At a news conference last June 19, Nixon said "I would hope that we could beat" a timetable proposed at the time by former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford.

Clifford had urged a pullout of 100,000 American troops by the end of 1969 and withdrawal of all U.S. ground fighting forces by the end of next year. While Nixon expressed only a hope, such words in the mouth of a president tends to become regarded as a goal.

The President's Monday night reference to being more optimistic now than in June suggests possibly a speedup in the pullout which could achieve the hoped-for objective of bringing back all ground combat men by the November 1970 congressional elections—a development which could yield a political bonus.

Nixon left himself an escape hatch in warning that if the level of enemy activity significantly increases, "we might have to adjust our timetable accordingly."

A total of 60,000 American servicemen will be out of Vietnam by mid-December, under plans already in motion.

Pentagon sources indicate another withdrawal announcement may be expected in December.

These sources hint that, if Nixon approves, the next withdrawal slice could run around 40,250.

A full withdrawal of ground combat forces probably would total about 250,000 men, leaving another roughly 275,000 to 300,000 tactical air, artillery and other support elements to back up the South Vietnamese army, which would have taken over the ground battle role.

PROTEST EXTRADITION — Townspeople of Avellino block main highway leading to Naples, in Avellino, Italy, in support of American hiacker Lance Cpl. Raffaele Minichiello. The 20-year-old U. S. Marine's father lives in Avellino. The demonstrators are protesting against the possible extradition of the youth to the U. S. to stand trial for commandeering the TWA 707 jetliner Oct. 31 over California and forcing the crew to transport him to Rome, where he was apprehended shortly after arrival on Saturday. The Senate Critics Ready War Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, critical of President Nixon's Vietnam report, have opened the way for a new round of hearings on the entire war issue.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., called the committee into session today and predicted it would decide to go ahead with the hearings which had been scheduled last week but were postponed until after Nixon's Monday night speech.

Committee aides expressed some doubt the panel would be able to land the two leading administration figures it wants as witnesses: Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

The earliest possible day for the hearings was seen as Nov. 17. Next week Sen. Stuart Symington's subcommittee studying U.S. overseas commitments has sessions scheduled on Thailand.

Expressing his disappointment in Nixon's speech on Vietnam, Fulbright said Tuesday: "He now has fully and truthfully taken on himself the Johnson war, and I think it is a fundamental error."

Besides Fulbright, calls for committee hearings on the war came from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, and Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y.

Symington, D-Mo., joined Assistant Democratic Leader Edward M. Kennedy in asserting Nixon's speech shows he has no plan at all for ending the war.

Most Republicans expressed support for Nixon's policies. But GOP Sens. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon and James Pearson of Kansas said they had hoped Nixon would announce new U.S. troop withdrawals.

Pearson, however, predicted a further announcement before Christmas, and added he expects most U.S. ground troops to be out of Vietnam by the end of 1970. Similar predictions had been made earlier by senior congressional Republicans.

Gore gave the Senate an 11-page critique of Nixon's speech Tuesday, and warned if the United States withdraws "without laying the foundation for a compromise political settlement, we will be inviting the death knell of democratic processes in South Vietnam and a bloodbath of vast proportions."

Gore's speech brought a spirited defense of Nixon's policies by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., in the closest thing the Senate saw to a debate on the President's speech.

Fulbright told reporters he thought hearings would be educational and could focus on alternative courses facing the United States.

Mideast: Offer and Warning

By United Press International

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram said today the United States has offered Egypt a new peace plan for the Middle East. The report coincided with a new Israeli warning to one of its Arab neighbors.

Israel told Lebanon it reserved the right to attack in retaliation for guerrilla raids staged from Lebanese territory. The warning was made in a televised statement Tuesday by Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

It was Israel's first official reaction to Lebanon's compromise with guerrillas on its soil, an agreement ending two weeks of fighting between the guerrillas and Lebanese troops.

Al Ahram, often an official outlet for the Egyptian government, said details of the U.S. peace plan have been outlined to its ambassador to Washington, Ashraf Ghorbal, by Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco.

The paper did not disclose contents of the proposal, saying it will be submitted for discussion when the Big Four powers resume their talks on the Middle East later this month in New York.

The United States submitted two earlier plans for achieving peace between Israel and the Arab states. Egypt rejected both as "completely adopting the Israeli viewpoint."

Sisco and Anatoloy Dobrynin, Soviet ambassador to Washington, were meeting today in another of their series of bilateral talks on the Middle East, according to a U.S. spokesmanl at the United Nations.

Al Ahram also said President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt Tuesday night conferred with Yassir Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, "on the role of the Palestinian resistance against the Israeli enemy."

It said Arafat announced guerrilla representatives would hold further discussions in Beirut with President Charles Helou of Lebanon within the next few days to "iron out details governing relations between Lebanon and the guerrillas."

In his speech on the matter, Eban said "Israel favors independence of Lebanon and her right to her own unique national and cultural character. However, Lebanon is under an obligation to respect the independence and security of Israel and prevent any attack from her territory upon Israeli citizens and territory."

Nixon Names Two to High Cabinet Rank

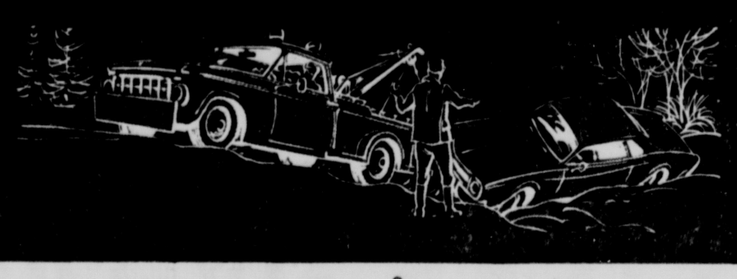

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon has named Bryce Harlow and Daniel P. Moynihan presidential counselors with Cabinet rank—only the second and third men to hold that title.

Arthur Burns, the first person to be designated counselor, was named by Nixon in October to become chairman of the Federal Reserve Board Jan. 31.

Police Summoned to MIT Campus

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Hundreds of riot-equipped police moved onto the campus of prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology today and pushed back some 500 shouting antiwar demonstrators who had set up a picket line in front of an MIT laboratory building.

Several persons reportedly were hurt.

The officers in charge of the various platoons rode close herd on their men, and in one instance a burly sergeant was seen pulling off an officer beating a demonstrator with a club.

The police wheeled into the picket line from two directions, and only seldom broke ranks despite taunts and catcalls from the demonstrators.

The demonstrators set up their picket line at 7 a.m., and refused to let lab employes through.

The police—from both Cambridge and the Metropolitan District Commission—moved into the area shortly afterward, but refrained from taking action for more than two hours.

IBM Establishes New Division

WHITE PLAINS — A new division — called General Systems — has been established within the Data Processing Group of International Business Machines Corporation.

The new division incorporates manufacturing, development and programming activities in the area of low-cost data processing equipment. Its principal locations will be at Boca Raton, Fla., and Rochester, Minn., where IBM has plants and laboratories. Commenting on the announcement, G. B. Beitzel, IBM vice president and general manager of the Data Processing Group, said:

"The company is establishing the General Systems Division to place a special focus on the low end of the product spectrum. The new division also places general management responsibility at the operating location. To accomplish this, the plant general manager and the laboratory director will now report to a location general manager who becomes responsible for the product from start of development through the manufacturing process to customer shipment."

CWA Stoppage At Phone Firm

KINGSTON — Upwards of 725 plant workers of the New York Telephone Company today were called off their jobs in this area by the Communications Workers of American Union, protesting the alleged refusal by the company to engage in bargaining.

Leroy Terwilliger, vice president of Local 1120 of the CWA, said that the "lockout" by the company and the calling off from the jobs of the 725 workers this morning, was to show support for the CWA and two officials who were served criminal contempt citations by the company last night.

Terwilliger said CWA attorneys, Morton Bajr, international vice president, and Howie Branker, president of Local 1101, who were served the papers were due in court at 2 p.m. The CWA said the company reneged on a promise to have a state mediator, Vincent McDonald, sit in on bargaining talks.

Nixon Sees Success On War, Inflation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon celebrated the first anniversary of his election today with the prediction that his plans for ending the Vietnam War and licking domestic inflation will succeed.

The President was clearly in excellent spirits as he hosted a breakfast for about two dozen early congressional supporters in his presidential campaign. He admitted he was "rather happy," saying it was not only because of the anniversary but because of "a couple of big victories" Tuesday in state elections.

A television crew from NBC's Today Show was given the unusual opportunity to carry a live segment from the dining room and Nixon talked with interviewers for several minutes before sitting down with his Republican guests from the House and Senate.

In reply to questions, he expressed confidence that his Vietnam course, outlined in a nationally broadcast speech Monday night, would "end the war" and that domestic policies would cut back on inflation so consumer dollars will "mean more."

But the President said progress toward another prime goal — reversing the rising crime rate in the nation—was being held up by congressional opinion. He said lawmakers had failed to act on administration anticrime legislation but "we're going to hold their feet to the fire" until they do.

He also said the public was looking to Congress for positive action on tax reform and other pocketbook items to "cut back on the cost of living."

Overall, however, Nixon said in looking back on the almost 10 months of his administration and the year since he was elected on Nov. 5, 1968, "we have made significant progress" toward meeting the nation's problems.

He said he was "very heartened" by cooperation generally by the Democratic congressional leaders and lauded them for often eschewing partisanship on crucial issues such as Vietnam.

"There are responsible men in Congres and there are some not so responsible," he said.

He said he recognized there were "many honest people who are not going to be affected by polls or elections" and said he did not expect many minds to be changed immediately on Capitol Hill by the Tuesday voting or opinion polls showing strong public support for the way he is running his office.

But Nixon indicated he felt there might be some later ruboff effect of the heavy volume of support he has received from the public since his Vietnam speech, of the opinion polls and of the GOP election victories.

He reminded his interviewers that Washington as a whole is a close and eager observer of political trends.

The guests at the White House breakfast were among the earliest backers of Nixon when he made his second bid for the presidency. They range from moderates such as Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., to conservatives like Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Some of those present—also including Attorney General John N. Mitchell—were aboard the Nixon plane a year ago today when he flew from California to New York to wait out the election results.

Brazilian Jet Lands in Havana

By United Press International

A Brazilian jetliner hijacked by five armed men and a woman and forced to fly to Cuba landed safely at Havana today. The control tower of Santiago, Chile's Pudahuel International Airport said.

The Boeing 707 belonging to Varig Airlines of Brazil was one of two Latin American airliners hijacked Tuesday. The gunmen took over after it took off from Buenos Aires with 133 persons aboard.

The Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) said one of the two Lancia hijackers was captured by Grand Cayman police when he left the plane to supervise the release of the 32 passengers during the stopover.

But police released the man when his companion aboard threatened to shoot the stewardess.

Arts Workshops Set For Area Cadettes

KINGSTON — The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is offering an all day Workshop in Creative Arts to all interested registered Cadette Scouts in the Council at the J. W. Bailey School off Hurley Avenue, Kingston, Saturday, starting at 10 a.m.

There will be nine classes offered with each girl being given a choice of two crafts, one morning class and one afternoon class. The entire program is being offered as a result of suggestions and requests made by Cadette Council representatives.

Workshop sessions will include Theater Arts, conducted by Mrs. William Askue; puppetry, Mrs. Ronald Hill; ceramics, Mrs. Robert Wirth; Textile arts, Miss Sandy Fratoni; folk singing, Rita Mary Senor; leather tooling, Lowell Hellard; square dancing, Mrs. James Greeson; flower making, Mrs. Frank Spadafora; finger weaving folk craft, Senior Scouts Nancy Mehlich of Saugerties and Lina Bartow of New Paltz.

General chairman for the day's events is Mrs. William Miller, aided by Mrs. Richard Batiuk and Mrs. Douglas Bartow. Reservations chairman is Mrs. George Erbstein.

There will be a special luncheon for the many volunteer adult workers who are helping to make this program possible. Mrs. John Murdoch is chairman of the luncheon committee. Mrs. David Ennis, field director, is acting as professional Scout Advisor, for the day's program which is based entirely on the Cadette Handbook requirements in the Arts and Crafts field of interest.

There is a nominal registration fee to cover costs of materials and dessert. Girls are required to bring their own nosebag lunch, their handbooks, and also sneakers for the square dance classes and a protective coverall for the Textile Arts class.

Registrations were due Oct. 31, however late reservations will be accepted. Leaders who wish to attend as observers are more than welcome. The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts is a cooperating member agency of Ulster County Community Chest.

Victory Party

The Town of Shangunk Republican Club will hold its next meeting and victory party Wednesday, Nov. 12 at 8 p.m. in the Walker Valley Firehall. It will be the last meeting of the year. Schedule will resume in March.

Veterans' Day Assembly Slated

SAUGERTIES

Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, superintendent of schools, has commented, "Veterans' Day should be etched deeply in the hearts of every real American. Those who gave their lives and those who served and returned, sacrificed and suffered for the benefit of mankind.

Daniel Y. Lee, principal, Saugerties Senior High School, announced today that a special assembly program has been planned for Friday at the Saugerties Senior High School. The purpose of this program is to commemorate those men and women who have served their country.

Every year a program of this nature is planned to give recognition and observance to a National holiday — Veterans' Day. This year through the efforts and energy of Peter M. Williams, representing the Saugerties American Legion, we are pleased to announce that the principal speaker will be Assemblyman H. Clark Bell of Woodstock.

Now, you can make your Porch or Breezeway a warm, liveable room all winter (IT'S EASY— IT'S INEXPENSIVE)

Why store summer furniture—protect it from the elements—enclose your porch or breezeway with Flex-O-Glass. See your dealer for the amount you need, then just cut with scissors and tack (or staple) over your screens. For only a few dollars you now have a room you can use all winter long.

Halloween Art Winners

SAUGERTIES

Winners of the Halloween window painting contest sponsored by Saugerties Jaycees were announced this week.

First prize for most creative was won by Bonnie Jenkins, Linda Pulcastro, Lisa Klein and Lee Ann Lang; second place, Genna DeLong and Evelyn Gade.

Most artistic, Amy Brog first, and Carla Vollheim and Pam Wedman, second.

Cutest, first, Debbie Dargan, Debbie Swart and Lynne Beck and second, Mary Mercer and Mary Ann Daley.

Area Jayncees Discuss Toys, Senior Citizens

SAUGERTIES

A program for the area's senior citizens and the Christmas toy project were the main topics of discussion at the recent meeting of Saugerties Jayncees held at Saugerties Savings Bank meeting rooms.

No definite action was taken on the senior citizens program, but further discussion is anticipated.

Many new and used toys were received for the Jayncees' toy program for the holidays.

Guests at the session were Mrs. Joseph Pawlows, Mrs. Peter Gabriel and a few members of Kingston Jayncees, Mrs. William Garvey, Mrs. Rayleen Jacobs and Mrs. Glenda Kayma. Mrs. Richard Shemenske was installed as a new member at this session.

Morse School Play Subject, United Nations

BLUE MOUNTAIN

To celebrate United Nation's Day recently, the Fourth Grade of Mrs. Patricia Tonzi, Grant D. Morse School, enacted the play The Key to Understanding, by Louise Biggs.

The entire class took part in the presentation. Major roles were performed by Peter Derschang, Marion Justi, Martha Kaminsky, and Alan Myer. Some of the chilren played the parts of a dozen nations of the world and spoke about their contributions to humanity.

REPRESENT 170 YEARS OF MASONRY — Four long-time Masons of Ulster Lodge 193, F&AM representing 170 years of Masonry were honored at a recent meeting with presentation of membership pins at Saugerties Masonic Temple. With William E. Vaughn (L) district deputy of Greene-Ulster District are (L-R) Harry J. Knaust, 40 years; Jesse VanGaasbeek, 50 years; George W. Saile, 40 years and Carroll W. Nieffer, 40 years. Roger E. Myer, master of Ulster Lodge participated in the ceremonies. (Johnstone photo).

Education Week Activities Listed

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties Central Schools will once again participate in national recognition of American Education Week during November 9-15, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold.

Last year approximately 1,917 parents and friends visited schools during the evening and 1,144 observed classes during the school day. Dr. Arnold states, "We invite all parents and citizens to visit schools during American Education Week and the week following. Although you are always welcome, we urge you to take advantage of this special opportunity. As taxpayers you support your schools and as parents you trust your children to our care. We want you to see your schools and be proud of them.

"The Board of Education hopes that you will visit the schools so that you will be aware that your investment of school taxes is in good hands. See the new rooms at Glasco and Mt. Marion Schools. Inquire about the instructional programs at the four elementary schools and the junior and senior high schools. If you have questions ask the principal and teachers or phone the superintendent's office. We will appreciate your comments on your observations. Drop us a note."

Saugerties Central Schools appreciate the store window space so generously donated for displays and take this opportunity to thank the proprietors for their cooperation.

Open House is scheduled as below:

Monday, Nov. 10 Glasco School 7:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Nov. 11 Veteran's Day — Schools Closed; Wednesday, Nov. 12 Main Street School 7:30 p.m.; Thursday, Nov. 13 Morse School 7:30 p.m.; Tuesday, Nov. 18 Mt. Marion School 7:30 p.m. and Thursday, Nov. 20 Junior and Senior High Schools 7:30 p.m.

Following are descriptions of the individual school programs prepared by the principals.

In conjunction with National Education Week, the Saugerties Junior and Senior High Schools are celebrating their annual Back to School Night on Thursday, Nov. 20. On this night, the parents will become students for a day as they will participate in a mini-schedule of their son's or daughter's school day.

As the parents travel from period to period, they will have the opportunity to hear their children's teachers explain the objectives of the various courses of instruction.

Junior High School parents are requested to meet in the school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m. where they will be welcomed by Principal Robert M. Moser. Parents will leave the cafeteria at 7:45 to attend first period "classes."

High School parents are to report to the high school auditorium at 7:30 p.m. where they will be welcomed by Principal Lee and entertained by the high school choir.

Lee and Moser urge all parents not to be late for school this night and anticipate a large attendance. Last year, more than 600 parents took part in this activity.

U.N. Woman Chief

Man's Only Hope

By PHYLLIS BERNSTEIN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. UPI—The woman who presides over the 24th session of the United Nations General Assembly sees the world body as "man's only hope, I think."

The words are those of Angie Brooks, the first African woman to serve as UN General Assembly president. She truly feels this way about the UN, even though she told its delegates when she became president that they had a tendency to view world affairs somewhat parochially, as if they were being played out at New York headquarters.

"Perhaps we haven't done the best, but I think the United Nations has done a good job," she said in an interview, "and now we must combine our efforts to achieve the goals we set out for."

Public Role Not Personal

Miss Brooks was reluctant to talk of many issues before the UN, of whether Red China should be admitted to the UN, and the like. She explained that hers was an overall role as president, not one of expressing personal views.

The president reflected, as she sat in her spacious office overlooking the East River, on the 1940s, when she first came to the United States to study.

On her arrival from Liberia, a country of less than two million persons, she recalled that Baltimore was "an overwhelming metropolis. I thought, 'Where do all these people live?'" Miss Brooks was only 17.

She went on to receive a bachelor of arts degree from Shaw University, Raleigh, N.C., a master of science degree in political science from the University of Wisconsin and a doctor of laws from Howard University. All the while, she supported herself with menial jobs, including scrubbing floors.

Farm Life In Liberia

Back in Liberia, Miss Brooks leads an entirely different life from the sophistication of New York's international community. Life is on a f: some 60 miles from Monravia, where she takes care of the children of her laborers when they are ill or in need, and bit by bit has become foster mother to them. She adopted three girls in 1962 while in Ruanda.

Providing for these children's education she called "a rewarding experience."

Her own two children from a marriage which ended in divorce are Richard, 22, an engineer, and Wynston, 21, a pilot.

Asked to define herself, she said, "I am a humanitarian."

She is an ardent believer in education. "In Liberia, I supervise a high school," she said, "and I hope some day to have the money to build a school in Africa."

Infirmary Needs Discussed at Open House

KINGSTON

Dr. Frank L. Gollnick, administrator of Ulster County Infirmaries, spoke on the background and services of the Kingston Infirmary at a recent open house at that facility.

The meeting was arranged to discuss volunteer needs. Among area groups represented were the United Council of Church Women, Kingston Infirmary Annex, Kingston Hospital Auxiliary, YMCA, American Red Cross, New Paltz Health Related Service, and Ulster County Community Action Committee.

Dorothy Gunzelman, director of nurses, spoke on nursing services provided by the institution. Harold Larsen, supervisor of Social Services of Ulster County, outlined his department.

A discussion of volunteer service was conducted by Matilda Skrivanek, activities consultant, and Charles Tarsia led a tour of the Flatbush Avenue institution.

Adventists Meet

The Kingston Seventh Day Adventist Church meetings are held at the New Central Baptist Church each Saturday morning with Sabbath school 9:30 and Sermon 11:45 a. m. This week is being observed as Week of Service through World Field Children's topic is Inheritance.

Charges Misinformation Spread About

Pre-Zoning Marbletown Group Raps Businessmen

STONE RIDGE — Marbletown's new pro zoning group today criticized members of the Marbletown Businessmen's Association (MBA) for "their apparent failure to read the proposed zoning ordinance before going out and campaigning against it."

Mrs. Thayer Willis, spokesman of the Ad Hoc Committee for Zoning, said "Some association members have been spreading so much misinformation about the ordinance that I can't believe they have actually read it."

Mrs. Willis charged that the Businessmen's Association members "have told people that the ordinance will regulate building design and construction, which it will not."

She cited cases where individuals from the MBA have "upset a number of people" with their misinformation.

The ordinance is scheduled to be presented to the Town Board shortly, after being worked over by the town's Zoning Commission and discussed at public hearings in revised form.

The Ad Hoc spokesman also challenged "the value of the zoning ordinance questionnaire being distributed by the MBA, actively campaigning against the ordinance."

She said a number of town residents have called members of the zoning commission after being interviewed by the MBA. In one case, Mrs. Willis said, a recently widowed woman was told by a representative of the Businessmen's Association that she would have to "move her late husband's business or face a fine."

Mrs. Willis gave another case of a resident being told he would also have to move his business under the proposed law, saying of both cases that the MBA claim was unfounded.

"They have upset a number of people by telling them that their existing businesses will have to be moved under the new ordinance, if they are in a residential area," said the Ad Hoc committee.

The committee also charged that the MBA "have told people that the ordinance will regulate private building design and construction — which it will not, and they are saying it will be detrimental to the town's economic development."

"This is simply not true," said Mrs. Willis.

"Last month," she said, "an association member told me that I would not be able to construct a new back entrance on my house if the ordinance was passed.

"This kind of talk, I hope, is based on ignorance of the ordinance rather than a deliberate attempt to mislead," Mrs. Willis said.

"The proposed ordinance is to control land use rather than construction," she explained. "While the ordinance does require homeowners to present drawings of proposed structures, in order to get a building permit, the regulation is not a restriction on size, rather it is to determine if the new structure will be set back the required distance from neighboring property lines."

The Ad Hoc Committee termed "unfair" charges that the zoning ordinance will be detrimental to the community's economic growth, asserting that zoning "is designed to attract the type of business that will pay a large share of taxes without damaging the rural setting."

"Furthermore," she said, "existing businesses will not be required to move if they are in residential areas when the ordinance is passed. They will be designated as 'non-conforming' on the zoning map and will still have permission to expand their facilities up to 50 per cent," the committee said.

Urging members of the Businessmen's Association to "read the ordinance," the committee said copies are available at the town hall in Stone Ridge and through members of the commission.

POSTER WINNERS — Al Marquart presents awards to Clean Air Week Poster Winners at a recent meeting of the Ulster County Committee for Clean Air. Northern Dutchess Goes It Alone

RHINEBECK — The lack of any initiative by "other interested parties in this community" to develop a sewerage system has prompted Northern Dutchess Hospital to go ahead with plans of its own.

Michael C. Mazzarella, hospital administrator, has announced that plans are being finalized for the construction of a 36,000 gallon sewerage treatment plant on hospital property.

There is no sewerage system in the Village of Rhinebeck, and no immediate plan to get one. It was hoped that the development of Beekman Acres, via the much publicized "Think City" promotions, would enable the village and the hospital to join forces to share the expense of installing a comprehensive system. There has been no discernible progress by the development company holding the option on Beekman Acres to develop the property.

The Micro-Floe unit, a product of the Neptune Company, is under evaluation by the engineering firm of Russ and Barger. Estimated cost of construction of the treatment plant is $50,000.

Mazzarella said that the hospital's Board of Directors would have preferred a joint venture with other interested parties in the community, but "for the good of the hospital and the Rhinebeck community, and especially those areas immediately surrounding the hospital, it was felt this matter can no longer be delayed."

The Mico-Floe unit comes with a money back guarantee from the company regarding the efficiency of performance which must meet specific public health requirements.

When completed, the new plant will easily take care of the existing hospital with expansion to 120 beds.

Red Cross Urges 'Voices From Home' Tapes

KINGSTON — Ulster County servicemen and women who cannot be home during the 1969 holiday season can receive a recorded holiday greeting from their loved ones here through "Voices from Home," a service of the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross.

Members of the servicemen's families and their friends are invited to make the voice recordings which are offered free of charge. Recordings may be made at the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross at 308 Clinton Avenue, Kingston. Appointments can be made by telephoning the chapter any weekday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

"Family members and friends mention little happenings, recall family jokes, and on occasion, persuade the family dog to bark a greeting. New fathers can hear the crying of their first-born. For many servicemen, this can be the finest holiday gifts they receive. After the tape is recorded, it is presented to the person or persons making the tape, complete with mailing carton, so that it can be mailed directly to the serviceman," a Red Cross Spokesman said.

Those desiring to make tapes, should do so at least several days before Christmas so that the serviceman to whom it is sent will have it in time for the holiday season. It is advised to make immediate arrangements for the taping.

Asks Withdrawal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George D. Fsicher, president of the National Education Association, has asked President Nixon to withdraw his nomination of Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. to the Supreme Court.

Fischer also said in telegrams to the Senate Haynsworth's civil rights record "renders him unfit to hold this high public position." The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved Haynsworth's nomination probably will reach the Senate floor this month.

Clean Air Contest Awards

KINGSTON — Awards for the winners of the Clean Air Week Poster Contest were presented at the monthly meeting of the Ulster County Committee for Clean Air.

This contest was initiated by the committee at the Kingston High School. A total of 21 posters were submitted. A total of 64 essays were submitted for a similar Clean Air Essay Contest. Winners of this contest will be announced in the near future.

Honorable mentions were given to Glenn Stingle and Joe Brown.

At the same meeting the following politicians running for offices in the area spoke on air pollution: Richard T. Cahill (Rep. Cons.) candidate for Alderman 7th Ward, Horace Emerick (Rep.) for Town Supervisor of Saugerties, Mike Antonelli (Cons.) for Assessor in Rosendale, Dave Fletcher (Cons.) for Councilman in Esopus, Howard Wittenbecker (Dem.) Councilman in Saugerties and John Machione (Rep. Cons.) Alderman 2nd Ward. All expressed their intention to fight air pollution if they were elected.

The next meeting of the committee will be a dinner meeting at the Governor Clinton Hotel Nov. 20.

Oldsters Hear Of Food Stamp Program Today

What is the Food Stamp Program? How does it work? Who is it for? These and many other questions will be answered for all area Senior Citizens at 2 p. m. today at the Senior Citizens Lounge, 94 North Front Street.

Harold Larson, of the County Department of Social Services will be the guest speaker and will attempt to explain to the Senior Citizen how they might be helped through the Food Stamp program. This is a must meeting for all Senior Citizens. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

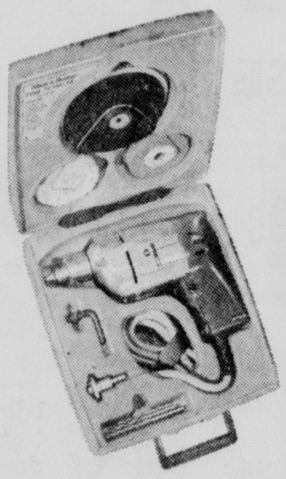

Names Destroyers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy has identified eight more destroyers to be mothballed and two aviation units to be disbanded in its billion dollar economy drive.

The destroyers are the Prichett, Ingersoll and Hopewell, at San Diego, Calif.; the Bailey, at Mayport, Fla.; the Zellars and Massey, at Newport, R.I.; and the Nicholas and O'Bannon at Pearl Harbor.

The two aviation units are Squadron 52, a 550-man antisubmarine warfare team at Quonset Point, R.I.; and VP21, a 300-man squadron at Brunswick, Maine.

ON THE JOB AT ORCHARD HILLS FARM

Red Hook's Multi-Million Plant Attracts European Businessmen

By TIM SCHUSTER

RED HOOK

European visitors took a look at American technology at Orchard Hill Farms frozen food plant here recently, as part of a magazine study tour.

The 28 visitors inspected the multi-million dollar plant for about an hour, and came away with favorable impressions. The participants in the tour are all representatives of similar operations in their respective countries of England, New Zealand, Sweden, Norway and Ireland.

The tour is in conjunction with the National Association of Frozen Food Packers annual meeting in New York. The tour also includes a look at a Birds Eye plant in White Plains. European members of the Association made a specific request to look at some American plants, and Orchard Hill was chosen as representative of its type.

At the Red Hook plant, primary productions, which appear under seveal different labels including both Grand Union and First National, are frozen pot pies, TV dinners, entrees, and casseroles. The Birds Eye plant deals mainly in frozen vegetables.

Family Business

Orchard Hill is a family business, which was begun on its present site 20 years ago and has greatly expanded to include the most modern machinery and methods and they employe about 200 people.

John F. Hoey, a Woodstock resident, is executive vice-president and has assumed the primary active role from his father, J. J. Hoey.

The younger Hoey conducted the tour of the facilities at Red Hook. Workers on production lines process 260 pot pies per minute on a conveyor device, packing up to 100,000 per day.

Special

About 25,000 pounds of turkey and 10,000 pounds of chicken are used per day in the pot pies, as well as vast amounts of beef for Salisbury steak and vegetables in TV dinners. About 60,000 TV dinners are produced in an average day.

Once the products are finished and packed, they are stored in huge "blast freezers," where temperatures range from minus 60 to minus 70 degrees fahrenheit. "The faster they are frozen, the better," noted Hoey.

The produce to be used in this end product is stored at Germantown in cold storage after delivery by freight train.

Orchard Hill uses 12 tractor-trailer combinations and 15 trucks to transport the frozen foods to a market which extends west to Chicago and south to Charlestown, W.Va.

Own Commuter Bus

Production crews work one shift during the day, but the plant is open 24 hours a day for cleanup, maintenance and preparation for the next day. A large number of persons from the Hudson area working at the plant have prompted the management to run its own commuter bus.

The federal government provides the establishment with two full-time employes also, USDA inspectors who keep an eagle eye on the quality of the produce. Line supervisors and quality control workers employed by Orchard Hill also must check over each of the thousands of items each day.

John Hoey commented to The Freeman on his new-found conviction that greater emphasis must be placed on public relations and community relations. "To most of the people in the area, we're just a frozen pie factory," he said.

Also discussed, after a private tour of the sewerage treatment plants, was the present question of disposal of chemical effluent waste product that has aroused the ire of some Red Hook residents.

$400,000 Down the Sewer

"We have invested $400,000 in our sewerage treatment," he said proudly, pointing to skimmers, chemical treatment plant, and aeration procedures. "The resultant effluent has next to no odor, has the consistency of molasses, and cannot possibly travel through the ground. Once it has dried out and is covered, you couldn't detect it."

We sniffed the air, and caught the faint suggestion of an odor from the untreated sewerage.

To many residents of Red Hook, Orchard Hill is still just a "frozen pie factory," but to 28 European businessmen it is a shining example of American technology.

Model RR Show Opens on Friday

KINGSTON

The first train will roll on the miniature railroad system of the Kingston Model Railroad Club Inc., on Friday, Nov. 7, at 7 p.m., beginning the 32nd annual public exhibition of the local model engineers.

The show will be presented Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 7 and 8 and 14 and 15, from 7 to 9 p.m., and Sundays, Nov. 9 and 16 from 2:30 to 9 p.m. at the clubhouse at 541 Broadway.

Access by automobile to the exhibition is down Pine Grove Avenue from Broadway to Susan Street, with pedestrian access utilizing the stairs from the Broadway Underpass.

Club president Claude Williams again emphasized that the exhibit of the club is not a toy in any sense of the word. It is a complete quarter-inch scale model railroad system developed over a period of 32 years and presenting all types of rolling stock operating through a miniature countryside. Models of the huge steam locomotives which hauled trains years ago will be in operation along with modern diesel locomotives. Club members will be present to answer questions and to explain the intricate wiring system and other displays which will be available at the public exhibition.

County SPCA Meets Tonight

NEW PALTZ

The community is invited to attend the November meeting of the Ulster County SPCA. It will be held in the Joe Deyo room of the New Paltz Savings Bank, Main Street, New Paltz today at 8 p.m. Dr. Andre Ross, veterinarian, whose office is located in High Falls, New York, will be the guest speaker.

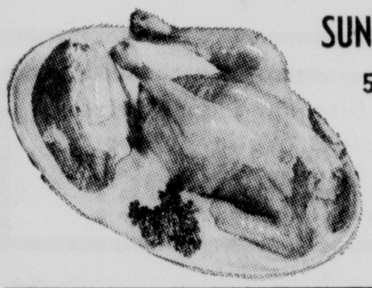

In addition to the guest speaker, Mrs. Katherine Stoutenburgh, president of the SPCA, will review the activities of the organization and tell about dog-obedience training. A question and answer period will follow.

Refreshments will be served.

Jersey and Ohio Reject Lower Vote Age Moves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Proposals to lower the voting age in New Jersey and Ohio were turned down in statewide referenda Tuesday. Voters in a quarter of North Carolina's counties approved an additional one per cent sales tax for local purposes.

Other referenda on state and city ballots included measures to subsidize mass transit, school bonds and proposals to legalize local liquor sales.

In New Jersey the proposal to lower the voting age from 21 to 18 years was rejected by a 901,055 to 636,265 margin with 81 per cent of the vote counted.

Backers of a "Vote 19" measure in Ohio conceded defeat when the measure was trailing by 68,000 votes but announced plans to put the issue back on the ballot next year.

Georgia and Kentucky are the only states currently with a voting age of 18. Residents in Alaska are eligible to vote at 19 and in Hawaii at age 20.

New Jersey voters overwhelmingly approved a state lottery and a $271 million bond issue to combat water pollution and acquire reservoir sites.

Kentucky voters turned down a proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions of the state legislature. It now meets biennially.

In North Carolina voters in 25 of the state's 100 counties approved the additional one per cent sales tax that will be on top of the statewide three per cent sales tax.

The executive director of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners, the group which spearheaded the rrotax campaign, predicted the additional levy will be approved throughout the state in three years.

Voters in New York State appeared to be approving four proposed amendments to the state constitution, including a so called bill of rights for conservation, formally committing the state to a policy of conserving natural resources.

Detroit voters overwhelmingly approved a charter amendment to grant the City Council budgetary control over the city bus system and thus the power to subsidize it. Previously the transit system had to rely solely on fares for income.

In Seattle, however, voters rejected a transit subsidy tax measure along with a $40-million school levy. A measure to fluoridate water in Spokane was defeated 27,425 to 14,653.

School bonds issues were passed in Philadelphia, Denver and Hartford, Conn.

Voters in Hebron, Conn.—population 1,900—decided to allow the sale of liquor in the town after a 44-year dry spell. But Bloomsfield, Conn., with 19,000 residents, decided it would stay legally dry.

The longest dry spell ended was in Greeley, Colo. Voters there ended a ban on liquor sales that had been in effect for 100 years under the charter of Horace Greeley's Union Colony, which founded the city.

Fitzgerald Will Shun Appeal After Elimination of Job

WASHINGTON (AP) — A. Ernest Fitzgerald says the Air Force eliminated his $28,900-a-year job in retaliation for his Congressional testimony disclosing multimillion-dollar cost overruns for the giant C5A supertransport plane.

"I couldn't prove that, but I think it's a safe assumption," the 43-year-old Fitzgerald said after the Air Force said Tuesday his job had been abolished as a part of a "reorganizational" move. He said he wouldn't "waste time" trying to appeal.

The service said the action was "absolutely not" related to what it referred to as Fitzgerald's "previous notoriety in relation with congressional testimony."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., disagrees. He said elimination of Fitzgerald's job—deputy for management systems in the office of assistant secretary of the Air Force for financial management—was clearly reprisal for the C5A testimony.

"It is a clear message from the Pentagon to its employes," Proxmire said. "That message is: 'Do not try to reduce costs; do not aim at efficiency; don't attempt to achieve economy. If you do you will be isolated and fired.'"

Proxmire, who headed the subcommittee that heard Fitzgerald's testimony, said: "To fire a man who has exposed the most gross form of waste and inefficiency in government on the grounds of economy is to make a mockery of that term."

Secretary of the Air Force Robert C. Seamans said the job was abolished as one of some 850 military and civilian reductions ordered in the service to save money.

It was Fitzgerald who, beginning about a year ago, informed Proxmire and other members of Congress that the C5A program, which involves the world's largest aircraft, would cost $2 billion more than the original estimate of $3.1 billion.

The Birmingham, Ala., native blamed the cost overruns on faulty cost estimating by the Air Force, inadequate cost control and planning and other things.

Fitzgerald said in a telephone interview "there is no question" but that the Air Force tried to conceal spiraling cost estimates on the C5A 120-plane contract with Lockheed-Georgia Corp.

Most recent Air Force estimate on the programs cost is $5.2 billion, a figure Fitzgerald was testifying to a year ago. He said now he expects the cost to go as high as $5.8 billion, or $2.6 billion above the 1965 estimates when the plane was authorized. Fitzgerald said he was "completely removed from any contact" with the C5A program after his November 1968 testimony. One of his subsequent assignments was checking the operation of a bowling alley in Thailand.

Fitzgerald said he will be on the payroll through Jan. 5, 1970.

"My boss said they were eliminating my job in order to save money," he said. "If they really wanted to save money, we could save it elsewhere, by the bushels."

Live Color Pictures From Moon

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 12 astronauts hope to find out today whether they will be able to treat the earthlings to live color television of their moon walk.

A television camera which has been giving trouble is to be plugged into their lunar lander atop a Saturn 5 rocket for a final test.

If the results are good, astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Alan L. Bean will count on transmitting live color pictures of the moon's bleak, cratered surface as they work on the Ocean of Storms.

Meanwhile, preparations for the Nov. 14 launch progressed smoothly, with astronauts Conrad, Bean and Richard F. Gordon Jr., planning to spend much of the time in space simulators.

Gordon is to orbit the moon in the Yankee Clipper command ship while his companions fly the lunar lander called Intrepid to the surface Nov. 19.

Conrad and Bean are to spend 31½ hours on the moon, with each man set to log about seven hours exploring outside, deploying scientific instruments and collecting rocks.

Launch Director Walter Kapryan of the Kennedy Space Center reported, "We are in better shape with respect to Apollo 12 than we have been for any launch."

Kapryan said the final 98-hour countdown is to start at 7 p.m. EST Saturday. He said there are four built-in holds totaling 38 hours, 22 minutes to allow for any problems that might arise.

Launch time Nov. 14 is 11:22 a.m.

Deciphering Moon Rocks

More Questions the Result

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The moon's surface may turn out to be the rosetta stone of the solar system, but scientists are finding it hard to decipher.

Instead of providing a key to the history of the moon and planets, as the Rosetta Stone did to ancient Egyptian writings, the 48 pounds of lunar samples returned by Apollo 11 so far have provided more questions than answers.

But more scientific talent around the world is concentrating on the moon than it ever did at one time on earth, and man may soon come up with some solutions to a few of the moon's mysteries.

The 142 scientific teams that now are analyzing Apollo 11's treasure will meet in Houston in January to report on what they have found. One noted lunar theorist, Dr. Harold C. Urey, has already hinted he will have something interesting to say.

And by then, the preliminary results of this month's Apollo 12 lunar landing expedition should be in.

Apollo 12 astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., and Alan L. Bean are scheduled to land on the Ocean of Storms Nov. 19. They will spend more time on the moon than did Apollo 11's pioneers, set up a more sophisticated geophysical observatory and bring back more carefully collected rock samples.

EXAMINING THE LUNAR SAMPLES (UPI TELEPHOTO)

The findings of the initial lunar landing mission captured the imagination of scientists around the globe and formed the basis of a new science.

The biggest surprise probably was the ancient age of Apollo 11's samples. By the findings of reliable radioactive dating methods, the material solidified between 2 billion and 3.5 billion years ago—as old as the oldest known rocks on earth.

The team of geologists, chemists, physicists and biologists which carried out the initial laboratory examination of the samples said the great age was "perhaps the most exciting and profound observation made."

On later missions, said Dr. Paul W. Gast, a member of the preliminary examination team, "we have a very good chance of finding rocks that are perhaps as old as the moon itself, or as old as the solar system. So the surface of the moon may indeed be a place where we can study the early history of the solar system."

Boy Suffers Burns In Uptown Fire

KINGSTON — A 12-year-old boy suffered burns late Tuesday afternoon in a fire that heavily damaged a third floor apartment of the 3-story brick mercantile-apartment building at 581 Main Street owned by the Rose Samuels estate.

James Mack who resides in the building was taken to Kingston Hospital by police and treated for burns of the left side of face and scalp. He was later released.

Firemen responded to an alarm at 3:50 p.m. and on arrival found the kitchen of the apartment of Harrison Dudley heavily involved in fire. Flames spread to an adjoining bedroom and to walls in other rooms before the blaze was brought under control with pump streams.

Smoke and water damage was reported in the second floor apartment and a supply store on the main floor.

Officials said the blaze apparently was caused by a short circuit in wiring under the kitchen floor covering attached to a refrigerator. Seven pieces of fire apparatus were at the scene as fire fighters fought the flames under command of Deputy Chief Robert Maines. All units were back in service at 5 p.m.

Another fire call was received at 7:36 p.m. for a car blaze at 89 West Union Street. The car owned by Norman Alpaugh was heavily damaged. The cause of fire was listed as a backfire in the carburetor. Deputy Chief Hugh Greer was in charge at the scene.

Rhinebeck Club To Stage Shoot

By popular demand, a repeat of September's Turkey Shoot will be held by the Neighbors Gun Club of Rhinebeck on Sunday, November 9th.

Always a success, and popular with shooters from all over the Hudson Valley, the turkey shoots are held in Rhinebeck at Burger Road just east of the Village of Rhinebeck. Directing signs will be located on nearby roads to assist anyone unfamiliar with the area.

Shooting is scheduled to begin at 11 a. m. and continue until dusk. This promises to be a fast paced shoot. The turkey shoot held in September included 65 events in just over 5 hours providing excitement and action for all those attending.

Events will include the running deer, standing slugs and shot, flying ducks, dying quail and pistol shoots. A new event will be a rifle shoot with iron sights, rifle shooters to provide their own ammunition. It is intended if time permits and interest is shown, to include a rifle shoot with scopes also.

Cut rate tickets are now available from members and are also available prior to 11 a. m. on shoot day from R. Fraleigh.

Refreshments will be available. In the event of rain the shoot will be held the following Sunday, Nov. 16.

Retirement Aid

A representative of the Railroad Retirement Board will be at the New York State Employment Office, 16 Pine Grove Avenue, Kingston, Wednesday, Nov. 12, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. He will assist the railroad worker, his wife, widow, or survivors in retirement and survivor problems and answer any inquiries which they may have in connection with the Railroad Retirement and Unemployment Insurance Acts.

Survivors of Viet Heroes Awarded Medals

Honored were Chaplain (Major) Charles Joseph Watters of Jersey City, N.J., Pfc. John Andrew Barnes III of Needham, Mass., and Spec. 4 Robert Francis Stryker of Throop, N.Y.

Stryker was the son of Harold Stryker of Throop. Born Nov. 9, 1944, he attended high school in Auburn, before entering the Army at Syracuse in 1963.

Two days before he would have been 23, on Nov. 7, 1967, near Loc Ninh, Stryker saw several wounded men in his squad were within the lethal range of a claymore mine which was about to explode.

Stryker threw himself on the mine and was mortally wounded.

Probe Possible Link of Caldor, Lafayette Jobs

TOWN OF ULSTER — Investigation of the weekend burglary at the Lafayette Electronics Radio store on Albany Avenue Extension, was being pursued by area authorities on the possibility that there might be a link between that break in and one at Caldor's department store on Route 9W in July.

The loot stolen during the entry at Lafayette's was similar to the articles stolen during the burglary at Caldor's on the morning of July 29, when merchandise valued at $4,279.05 was carted away by the thieves.

The sheriff's office reported Tuesday that a partial inventory disclosed radios, television sets, hi-fi's and other electronics valued at about $5,000 were missing from Lafayette's. Entry to the store was made through a skylight on the roof and the burglars apparently took the loot through a side door to an awaiting vehicle.

State Police are still probing into Caldor's burglary. The store was entered through a good-sized hole that had been knocked through concrete blocks in the back wall. Investigation disclosed that the radios, TV's and other articles stolen from Caldor's were taken from the storage area and display floor in the rear and through the hole in the wall.

Authorities contend that there could be a connection between the two store burglaries and they are investigating that possibility, it was learned.

Asks $25,000 for Dog

WATERVLIET, N.Y. (AP) — A woman who claims her pet dog was killed in error by an off-duty policeman has brought suit for $25,000 against this Hudson River city north of Albany.

Miss Agnes Wiseman filed a notice of claim against the city, charging that G. Fred Tallman chased her German Shepard into an upstairs bedroom of her home and shot it. She said he was responding to a mad dog report and shot the dog "without a complete investigation."

Hafner - Morse Wedding Told

Miss Alice Hafner, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Hafner, 81 Meadow Court, High Falls, and Charles Hafner, Brooklyn, became the bride of John Otis Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Morse, Elm Street, Walden, on Saturday, Oct. 18 at High Falls Reformed Church.

The Rev. Richard Brihn officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Christiana provided traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli decorated the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an A-line, full-length raw silk gown, fashioned with a rolled beaded collar and beading down the front of the gown. Her shoulder length veil was attached to a Dior bow and she carried a cascade of miniature carnations and English ivy, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Dorothy AlBaba, Rosedale, L. I., served as matron of honor. She wore a pink brocade gown which was styled with an Empire waistline and a matching coat. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a cascade of maize yellow pompons.

Alfred Friedman, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, High Falls, was best man. Benjamin AlBaba of Rosedale and Raymond Carroll, Rosendale, served as ushers.

The bride is a graduate of Sheepshead Bay High School, Brooklyn, and is employed as a private secretary by Dutchess County Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

Her husband was graduated from Walden High School and Orange County Community College. He is employed by IBM, Poughkeepsie, as a senior designer.

Mr. and Mrs. Morse will make their home at Green Fields, Hyde Park.

Whittaker - Finken Nuptials Announced

Miss Katherine A. Whittaker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Whittaker, Malden-on-Hudson, became the bride of James L. Finken, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Finken, Malden-on-Hudson, on Saturday, Oct. 25 at St. Mary of the Snow Church, Saugerties.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an Empire style gown, featuring a lace bouffant skirt and short puffed sleeves. A pearl crown held her fingertip veil and she carried white chrysanthemums and red carnations.

Miss Marianne Finken, sister of the bridegroom, Malden-on-Hudson, served as maid of honor. She wore an Empire style gown of turquoise blue chiffon and a crown of white flowers with turquoise streamers served as her headpiece. She carried yellow chysanthemums, trimmed with yellow ribbon.

For her wedding tour of New York State, the bride wore a red and white knit dress, a white coat and a red corsage.

The bride attended Saugerties Central High School. Her husband was graduated from Onteora Central High School and attended State University of New York at Morrisville. He is a graduate of Cadillac Division of General Motors Training Program, New York City, and is serving with the Armed Forces as a medic.

Mr. and Mrs. Finken will reside at Malden-on-Hudson.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN BERARDI of 288 East Chester Street, Kingston, celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary Sunday, Nov. 2 at the Capri '400' Restaurant, Port Ewen. The event was given by their nephews and nieces, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Berardi and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Szymanski. Mr. and Mrs. Berardi were married Nov. 2, 1924 at St. Mary's Church, Kingston, by the Rev. Father Duffy. Eugene Berardi, brother of Mr. Berardi, and Mrs. Etta Woodworth, the former Miss Etta Barth who is a sister of Mrs. Berardi, were honor attendants. Mrs. Berardi is the former Margaret Barth. Immediate relatives attended the party including the honor attendants. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Secretaries Schedule Annual Workshop Here

The local Colonial Valley Chapter of The National Secretaries Association (International) will hold its annual workshop on Monday, Nov. 17, at 6:30 p.m., at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston. A buffet dinner will be served.

This year, the program, entitled "A Mini-Workshop" will feature an office situation exercise, "Your In-Basket." This portion of the evening's program will enable attendees to prove their ability as real executive secretaries and administrative assistants. Each attendee will be given the opportunity to try her hand at processing a series of simulated secretarial transactions, some under actual office conditions. Group discussion will be a part of this workshop and complementary material will be issued to all enrollees for future reference in their daily positions. The program will also feature a short treatise on the Certified Professional Secretary and other items of interest to the secretarial community.

The evening's workshop was planned and developed and will be introduced by the chapter's Education Chairman, Miss Lillian M. Styles, Secretarial Training Development Coordinator at the local IBM Systems Deveopment Division Engineering Laboratory who also serves as a member of the Business Advisory Council at Ulster County Community College. Moderator for the exercise will be Mrs. Gloria Starling, executive assistant at the Rondout Valley High School. Mistress of Ceremonies will be the chapter's program chairman, Mrs. Bea Edwards, executive secretary to the vice president of Manufacturing at Rotron Manufacturing.

All area secretaries, secretarial students, faculty and interested members of management are invited to attend this stimulating and educational workshop. Reservations may be made by contacting either Mrs. Bea Edwards or Miss Styles.

PLANNING "A MINI-WORKSHOP" — Members of Colonial Valley Chapter of the National Secretaries Association (International) are making arrangements for a program entitled "A Mini-Workshop," which will be presented in conjunction with the group's buffet dinner scheduled for Monday, Nov. 17 at 6:30 p. m. in Governor Clinton Hotel. Committee members include seated (L-R) Mrs. Beatrice Edwards, program chairman; Miss Lillian Styles, education and workshop chairman; Gloria Starling, moderator; standing, Mrs. Marie Blank, chapter president. The Country Wife

By DOROTHY VAN DORN

Our town has one of the last covered bridges in Connecticut but I fear we shall not have it long. It is, of course, a one-way bridge and cars wait politely at one end for the traffic to come through from the other — the traffic being usually another car. Some years ago the bridge was reinforced, old planks replaced, and generally given, as we thought, a new lease of life. We hoped it would be good for another century.

But no. Last spring the State Highway Department announced that no traffic over four tons in weight could use the bridge. This was a blow to the schools. School buses weigh at least six tons and a new system of transportation for the young in the area of the bridge had to be worked out. There were rumors now and then about the covered bridge. Its days might be numbered; it might no longer be a highway but preserved as a historic monument. And so on.

A few days ago the blow fell. The Highway Department informed the town officials that the bridge was eventually to be given up as a road, might be a historic monument, but in any case a new bridge, a vast concrete structure, would span the river some place above the town.

The activities of the Highway Department are not new to us. After the flood in 1955, when a number of wooden bridges were washed out, one near our farm had to be replaced. It had crossed a small stream, larger than a brook but nowhere near the size of a river. The old bridge had stood for more thn 50 years. The new bridge rises up in the air from concrete abutments on each bank and would be capable of spanning the Hudson River at Albany. It is reported to have cost $43,000 federal money of course. Didn't cost the town a cent. Just our money.

At a town meeting the other night there was considerable agitation about the bridge. The ladies of the Historical Society ruefully accepted the idea of a historic monument instead of a bridge. Other citizens wanted to argue with the Highway Department whose main idea, they said, was to build something very large and grab off a huge appropriation of government money for it.

One citizen discussed the bridge with a former resident of the town who had talked with a highway engineer about it in the days of its last rebuilding. The engineer said the structure of the bridge was something new to him, quite wonderfully strong. the Highway Department at the time allowed it to carry ten tons. He thought it might easily support fifty.

We shall see what the future will bring. Getting appropriations for bridges takes time. Maybe wires will be pulled. Maybe a new Highway Commissioner with a different approach to the bridge will take over. But the idea of a historic monument seems unrealistic. Who will maintain it? Who will mend it when flood waters next threaten it? Down the river a piece, where another covered bridge was preserved as a foot bridge, high water washed it away and it has never been rebuilt.

In our town we want our bridge, as an active highway, one way to be sure, but in continued use. It is likely that progress will take over as it so often does. But before it does, some of our citizens are going to protest.

Gives Tablesetting Demonstration to Capacity House

Mrs. H. Henry Staley of Rhinebeck presented a demonstration entitled "New Trends in Tablesetting" to a capacity house in Binghamton last week.

Mrs. Staley displayed 10 fully set tables in casual, informal, and semi-formal manner for breakfast, dessert, lunch, tea, dinner, and suppertime, using ceramic appointments of her own designing as well as heirloom, antique, and contemporary china.

Mrs. Staley is the author of the book "New Trends In Tablesetting," published last fall by Hearthside Press of New York.

Bare Midriffs Not for Church

Dear Mrs. Post: My cousin is getting married next month at five in the evening. One of her friends is planning to attend the wedding in a nylon pants outfit with a bare midriff. I know these outfits are "in" now, but I am still old-fashioned enough to think it is not in good taste to wear them in church. What is your opinion? — Barbara

Dear Barara: You are not "old-fashioned" at all! Almost every style of dress is seen at weddings today. But any clothing which is too extreme, or immodest or "bare," is out of place and in poor taste in church.

Notes on Return Envelopes

Dear Mrs. Post: What is the proper method for enclosing a selfaddressed, stamped envelope in a business letter? Should it be the same size as the original envelope? If so how, should it be folded? Is a smaller envelope, which would not require folding, proper? Should the return address of the company to which one has written be typed on the enclosed envelope, or should this be done by the company? — James R.

Dear Mr. R.: A smaller envelope is proper, and the best solution. However, the return envelope must be adequate for the material to be returned, so it is often as larger or larger than the outer envelope. In this case it is folded in thirds to fit in easily.

The return address is typed or stamped on by the company sending back the return

Mrs. William McVey Speaks About Tour Of Army Air Defense Command Facilities

Mrs. William J. McVey was guest speaker at the October 27th meeting of Sorosis of Kingston which was held at the home of Mrs. John Gill in Hurley.

Mrs. McVey told of her recent trip as a guest of the 52nd Artillery Brigade (Air Defense), in a cross country tour of the Army Air Defense Command's (ARADCOM) various defense facilities. Mrs. McVey was one of three area ladies invited to participate in a rare opportunity to make on the spot personal appraisals of ARADCOM's ability to accomplish its mission of air defense of the United States. The other two ladies from this area were Mrs. M. J. Dunham and Mrs. Dorothy Narel.

The tour, called "Operation Understanding" is an effort on the part of the Army in which selected civilian leaders are escorted through a week long tour of some of the defense facilities throughout the United States.

This group of ladies visited Wright Patterson Air Force Museum in Ohio; Fort Sill, Oklahoma; Fort Bliss, Texas, where they were briefed on the operation of the Nike-Hercules Missile Defense System; then on to McGregor Range, and White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico.

The week came to a climax with a stop at ARADCOM's Headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colorado, where they were briefed by Lt. General George V. Underwood, Comanding General of ARADCOM. While in Colorado Springs, they also toured the North American Air Defense Command's (NORAD) Combat Operations deep inside Cheyenne Mountain.

Mrs. McVey described the scenery as they traveled, contrasting the changes from the lush green growth, woodland and small farms of our Eastern area, across ranches of the prairie, deserts of the Southwest; the pure white Sand Dunes at high altitudes in New Mexico, to the breathtaking Rocky Mountain scenery in the Pike's Peak and "Garden of the Gods" area at Colorado Springs, Colo.

Mrs. McVey also gave a short sketch of the historical background of the areas which were visited, and the important part undertaken by the Army at these Forts during the Nineteenth Century, in defense against raiding Indian Tribes; in the War with Mexico; and in protecting civilians as they trecked their way to California during the "gold rush" days, eventually homesteading the great southwestern United States. Today, these bases are being utilized in the training of young men for a more modern type of national defense against possible enemy invasion by air or otherwise, through the use of modern missiles known as Hercules, Nike, Hawk and other interceptor missiles, combined with radar and other warning signal systems.

Mrs. McVey expressed confidence in what is being done to protect our country; confidence in the men chosen to lead, and expressed hope that "continued loyal support and trust in their wisdom and knowledge will be given."

Devotions at the meeting were led by Mrs. William E. Rylance who read an essay, "To Walk with Autumn Is to Walk Forever."

Ulster County Social Activities Are Scheduled

Rummage, Bake Sale

A rummage and bake sale for the benefit of Tillson-Rosendale Boy Scout Troop 17 will take place Thursday and Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Tillson Firehouse.

Toy Request

The Saugerties Jayncees are hard at work washing and repairing toys to be given to the needy children of Saugerties. Chairman, Mrs. John Andrews, announces that good repairable toys can still be left at Curry's Gulf Station, Route 9W, and the Blue Ribbon Cleaners, Saugerties, until November 10th.

Mrs. Andrews expressed appreciation to merchants who have thus far contributed new merchandise, and the townspeople, who have donated toys which are in excellent condition.

Distaff Digest

To Meet Thursday

Members of Little Gardens Club of Kingston will meet Thursday at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Odell on Old Route 209, Hurley, at which time election and installations of officers will take place.

Mrs. Anteo Marchetti, president, will preside at the annual business meeting.

Christmas Bazaar

The Hellenic Women's Club will sponsor its third Christmas Bazaar and will feature a Greek pastry sale at the St. George Greek Orthodox Church, 294 Greenkill Avenue, Kingston, on Saturday, Nov. 15 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 16 from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. in the Church Hall.

St. Mary's Mothers

The October meeting of St. Mary's Mothers' Society was held in the school auditorium with Mrs. William Mahoney, presiding.

Mrs. Richard Halstead reported that the Columbus Day dance was successful.

Arrangements were made for a token of appreciation to be presented to Sister Eileen Denney, former principal who was transferred.

During American Education Week the Society will sponsor a "Book Fair and Learning Festival" to which the public is invited.

You Say You Can't Afford a

GOURMET DINNER AT ROBERTO'S?

I say you can, . . . and I ought to know

I'm Roberto . . . and for a lot of years I've been masterminding some of the finest Continental menus up and down the Hudson River Valley between Manhattan and the State Capitol. I've never taken a back seat to anyone when it comes to turning out superb food . . . the kind of food that deserves to be called "Haute Cuisine." Ask any of the long-time gourmets who have been dining up and down the Valley these many years!

Now that I've opened my own place on The Hudson, just South of Kingston and just East of the Port Ewen Fire House, I not only am using all my experience to operate "Le Restaurant par Excellence" . . . but I'm initiating a new policy in pricing; it's a policy of giving my patrons

I say . . . away with the gimmick of advertising a dinner at a "come-on" price, then asking you to pay "extra" for the appetizers or desserts (even the beverage) that you might really prefer. I tell you straight out that.

will cost you at least $5.00; but . . . that's the price of your entire repast! The cost of your dinner is the price of the Entree you select; but whether you order my Whole Broiled Chicken at $5.00 or the succulent Prime Boneless Sirloin Steak at $7.50 . . . your choice will be served with all the extras; there are no second class dinners at ROBERTO'S!

as part of your dinner. With that under your belt, you have your

Choice of Appetizer or Soup

SHRIMP COCKTAIL—BAKED CLAMS ROBERTO
ESCARGOTS BOURGUIGNONNE—CLAMS ON HALF SHELL
MARINATED HERRING IN SOUR CREAM—SMOKED SALMON
EGGS A LA RUSSE—FRENCH ONION SOUP

and many more appetite whetters. And I repeat: You may choose any of them without a penny extra cost. After you enjoy that, you have your

Choice of Entree

(NOTE: The cost of your Complete Dinner, including Cocktail or Highball, Appetizer or Soup, Potato, Vegetable, Salad, Dessert and Beverage, is the Price of the Entree you select.)

Let me put this bluntly: If you aren't used to spending $5.00 to $7.75 for a celebrative repast, you've wasted your time reading this Menu. But if you enjoy elegant dining on occasion, I ask you to compare the final cost of with what you pay at any other restaurant even remotely in the same league as my smart, sophisticated new establishment. I'll go even further:

Have Dinner with me; enjoy your choices from my menu; then, if you honestly can show me any restaurant between Times Square and State Street where you can match what I give you for your money, DON'T PAY THE CHECK! You will be my guest for Dinner.

Roberto

P. S. I'm in the kitchen every evening except Wednesday. And you might also think about this: My whole place is available for your Private Luncheon or Cocktail Parties any afternoon of the week. I'll be glad to furnish ideas and information.

Hamburger Casserole Will Have Home Team Rooting for You

FOOTBALL FANS and food fans go hand in hand — especially after an exciting home game! Here's a special hamburger casserole that will satisfy the heartiest appetites, for it is rich in Bordo imported diced dates, brown sugar, pineapple and lean ground beef. Be game — try something unusually good. Your family will cheer you on!

Here's a recipe that will have every member of the home team leading cheers for you. . . . Cheers that match those given a winning touchdown in the final moments of play!

Here goes:

CASSEROLE

5 lbs. lean ground beef
3 tablespoons seasoned salt
1 cup bread crumbs

TOPPING

4 16-oz. cans, vegetarian baked beans
2 8-oz. packages of Bordo imported diced dates, or Bordo whole dates, cut up
3 tablespoons brown sugar
2 eggs
Pineapple slices and whole dates to garnish
3 tablespoons dark corn syrup

With a baster, remove any excess fat that may come to surface.

This recipe serves 10 to 12 hearty appetites, but you can freeze leftover—or the recipe is easily halved for 6 good servings.

The Art Club of Red Hook Central School is preparing paper flowers for sale at the Bard Handcraft Exposition and Sale Nov. 21, 22, 23.

From the proceeds of the sale, the Art Club plans to visit several art museums in New York City.

In an exposition that will have something for everyone, the exhibitions range from sculptured wood furniture to abstract photography. In addition, the Bard Craft Exposition will again feature such popular exhibits as weaving, pottery, ceramic and enamel jewelry, candles, silver work, braided rugs, wall hangings and fused glass ornaments.

The scene of the Bard Handcraft Exposition and Sale will be the Procter Art Center on the Bard College campus. It will be possible to view as many as thirty exhibits on the weekend of Nov. 21, 22 and 23, the hours of the exposition will be Friday and Saturday 1:00 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday 11:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

Named to Dean's List

Among the 108 students who were named Dean's Scholars for the 1968-69 academic year at The College of New Rochelle in Westchester County, was Miss Elizabeth Gilday of Kingston. The scholars were cited at a recent Honors Assembly.

Miss Gilday is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew T. Gilday of 275 West Chestnut Street. A junior, she is a graduate of Kingston High School.

Hints for the Homemaker

* * *

Toast whole blanched almonds in a shallow pan in a moderate oven; toss with mixed greens, apple slices, orange sections and clear French dressing for a wonderfully festive salad.

For a low-cost meal, add slivered almonds to condensed cream of celery soup and spoon over codfish cakes. Serve with spinach and twisted lemon slices.

Toast packaged waffles. Top each with a scoop of vanilla ice cream, then dollop with heated apricot or strawberry preserves and sprinkle with sliced or slivered almonds.

Bridgeport Booters Edge New Paltz, 2 to 1

By JIM MASSA

NEW PALTZ

"We didn't realize they were this good," said Frank Bakin, coach of Bridgeport University's soccer team, after his Nutmegers had narrowly beaten the New Paltz Hawks 2-1, here, Tuesday.

"They certainly are a better team than their record shows. Their halfback, Guy Cassarini, played just sensational and he broke up everything we tried to set up. Had Coach Durkin's booters beaten us it would have been no fluke. We played as well as we had any time this year," concluded Bakin.

After a hard-fought first period in which the Hawks outplayed the Nutmegers, the score remained at 0-0, Jose Santos scored the Nutmeger goal on an assist from Angelo DiMartino with 9:52 left in the second period. Santos set up the second Bridegport goal and received an assist as he hit Bob Duarte with a pass, who rammed it home with only 3:21 left in the third period.

After being shutout in the first three periods the Hawks came on strong in the final period and just missed knotting the score on three occasions. New Paltz scored its only goal when Bernie Schaeffer hit Abdi Yunis on a cross kick. Yunis went high into the air and headed it in with 18:41 left in the game.

Needing only one goal for the tie, the Hawks went all out on offense. The Nutmeger defense just wouldn't fold on several occasions late in the game. The Bridgeport defense is strong as the statistics prove over the season. Its opponents have only been able to squeeze out seven goals, while its offense has punctured the opposing goalie 23 times including today's game.

"My boys played their hearts out in this one and we certainly outplayed them the whole game except in the one department that wins it. They are the finest team we have played all year and we almost did it. I certainly can't complain to any of the boys as they played exceptionally well," concluded Durkin.

A look at the statistics prove out Durkin's statement. New Paltz had 30 shots on the goal to 21 for the Nutmegers. New Paltz kicked from the corner four times and Bridgeport booted once. The Hawks' goalie was credited with 10 saves while the Nutmegers' goalie stopped 16.

Sidebars: Bridgeport brought some strong credentials to New Paltz. Like they're only the 11th ranked team in the nation. They tied fifth ranked Hartwick early this season. Santos and Woischke are all-American candidates. Coach Bob Durkin is truly a fine sportsman as well as a gentleman. Bridgeport is 9-0-1 to date, while the Hawks finished its season with 5-6-1. The record doesn't show it but the Hawks should, we're hoping, get an invitation to a post-season tournament. Bridgeport had a 6-4-2 season in 1968. In 1967 the Nutmegers rolled to a 10-2-0 record and lost in the NCAA Tournament to LIU. Some teams that Bridgeport has beaten this year are Vermont, Delaware and Rhode Island. The Nutmegers play an independent schedule.

Oklahoma, Kansas State Picked in Key Contests

(By The Associated Press)

What better way to cap off Election Week than by casting a vote or two for the projected winners of Saturday's college football games. And we didn't even use a computer.

The weekend's big games are in the Big Eight, with the Southeastern, Big Ten and Western Athletic Conferences not far behind.

Oklahoma at Missouri—"The favorite doesn't mean anything in this game," says Missouri's Dan Devine, which may explain why the oddsmakers made it a pick 'em affair early in the week. "The Oklahoma-Missouri game has always been a good one and this one should be no different.

"Steve Owens (Oklahoma's tailback) is the best I've seen and their quarterback (Jack Mildren) is probably the best sophomore ever to come into our league."

Owens is fourth nationally in rushing with 881 yards on 209 carries in six games, while Missouri's Joe Moore ranks third with 184 rushes for 904 yards in seven games. Missouri also has a fine quarterback in Terry McMillan.

But McMillan has had a sore foot most of the season and may be operating at only half-speed. Besides, Missouri's defense has been suspect lately while Oklahoma revamped its defense last Saturday.

It's usually suicide to pick against a Big Eight team at home, but, living dangerously, one hesitant vote for ... Oklahoma!

Kansas State at Oklahoma State—K-State will have to guard against a letdown after getting sky-high for Oklahoma and Missouri and with Nebraska and Colorado coming up. O-State is tough anyway, but cast one vote for ... Kansas State!

Iowa State at Nebraska—This corner picked against Nebraska at home last Saturday and promises never to do it again. Nebraska!

Colorado at Kansas—Is this the week Kansas breaks its losing streak? No. Colorado!

Alabama at Louisiana State—The last time an Alabama team lost as many as three regular season games was 1958, Bear Bryant's first year as coach at Tuscaloosa. Welcome back, Bear. LSU.

Georgia at Florida—Gators were knocked from the unbeaten ranks last weekend but should have no trouble getting up for Georgia after last year's 51-0 debacle. Florida!

Michigan State at Purdue—Boilermakers could be ripe for an upset as they look ahead a week to Ohio State. But the Spartans are having problems on offense. Purdue!

Wyoming at Utah—Surprising Utes have won six straight. Wyoming looked like a shoo-in until (1) racial problems and (2) a loss to Arizona State. Utes are eighth in rushing offense, Cowboys first in rushing defense. Utah!

Princeton at Harvard—First of the Big Three series and Harvard would like nothing better than to knock Princeton out of a tie for the Ivy Lead. Guess here is they'll do it. Harvard!

Pilots Keep Flying

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—Sale of the Seattle Pilots to Seattle interests is virtually completed, handing Milwaukee another setback in its efforts to regain major league baseball, it was reported Tuesday night.

Lou Chapman, baseball writer of the Milwaukee Sentinel, said it was learned William R. Daley, majority owner of the American League Pilots, and Seattle theater chain operator Fred Danz have agreed on sale of the team to Danz' syndicate.

It was reported Daley will sell his 60 per cent of the club to Danz, who returned to Seattle after a meeting in Cleveland to complete the deal. The price is a reported $10.5 million.

"He and I have agreed on the document and the terms and all that remains are for him to talk to his associates and iron things out with city leaders in Seattle," Daley said.

"We expect him to officially announce on either Wednesday or Thursday that the sale of the Pilots is complete, pending approval of the American League. We haven't signed anything yet," Daley said.

There had been indications last month that Seattle was in danger of losing its franchise. The club drew less than 700,000 in its first season in the league in 1969, and there had been a lag in plans to renovate Sicks' stadium and start on a new domed stadium. It was reported at that time that if the Pilots moved, they would go to Milwaukee or Dallas-Fort Worth.

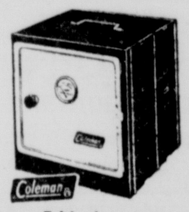

Daley said the league would prefer to have the Pilots stay in Seattle, adding it doesn't like to see a club moved—especially after only one year.

Asked by Chapman if he would have sold to Milwaukee if Seattle interests had not responded, Daley said, "Yes I would have."

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There seems to be no stopping the New York Knicks in the National Basketball Association.

They won their seventh straight game by whipping the Phoenix Suns 116-99 Tuesday night. It was the 12th victory in their first 13 games for the Knicks, off to their fastest start ever in the NBA.

In other NBA games, Philadelphia edged Chicago 113-109 and Baltimore rolled past San Francisco 124-105 in a doubleheader at Baltimore, and Seattle dumped Detroit 116-102.

Hal Greer had an off night for the 76ers, but he made up for it with some last-second tactics that gave his team victory over Chicago.

With just a few seconds remaining, Greer knocked the ball out of Chet Walker's hands, then raced down court for a basket off an assist from Archie Clark to ice it.

Greer missed a shot with 13 seconds left before his theft pulled it out. He scored 18 while hitting only five of 15 field goal attempts. Clark finished with 22 points and Washington and Bill Cunningham had 21 each.

Walker had 28 for the Bulls and Bob Love contributed 27.

In the nightcap, Baltimore's Wes Unseld, the league's most valuable player last year, sat out much of the game because of foul trouble, but the Bullets rallied behind substitute center Leroy Ellis and Gus Johnson.

Ellis, who had 22 points and 11 rebounds, and Johnson, who had 24 points, each scored four points when the Bullets rang up a 15-3 streak in taking a 51-35 lead in the second quarter. Baltimore then went on another 15-3 bing in the third period—when Johnson scored seven and Ellis four—in boosting the margin to 37-65.

Bob Boozer scored 28 points, including six straight baskets in the second quarter that helped open a big lead as Seattle scored its first victory ever at Detroit.

Seattle built a 95-66 lead late in the third period before the Pistons rallied to chop it to nine. However, a pair of Boozer baskets thwarted that threat.

Dave Bing led Detroit with 28 points.

Calvin Hill

Hill Rushing Toward Instant Fame

DALLAS — (NEA) — A Yalie in the National Football League is not exactly an object of curiosity like someone who eats apple cores. Calvin Hill of the Dallas Cowboys would be the first to agree.

"My teammates don't give me as much grief as they do Pettis Norman, who went to J. C. Smith, or Rayfield Wright, who went to Fort Valley State," he said. "I mean, no one ever heard of these places.

"Most of them have at least heard of Yale." And Calvin Hill tilted back in his chair in the hotel lobby and his mustache wiggled above his smiling mouth, his eyes enlarged some of the cherry-colored gash high on his right, milk-chocolate cheek denoted that lately he has been involved in activities other than crooning sentimental tunes down at Mory's.

Hill is a rookie running back with the Cowboys, and he is making such an impact that some of his teammates may stop reading stock market reports to browse through the tales of Frank Merriwell. Suddenly, Hill is the leading rusher in the league.

"They ask me who Yale plays and I tell them we always open with UConn," he said, referring to the University of Connecticut. "And they say they didn't realize people played football in Alaska. I had to tell them it wasn't 'Yukon'."

One day, Craig Morton, the quarterback, called a play and the team clapped hands, broke huddle, lined up and Morton, under center, poked his head this way and that and then, exasperatingly, called time out. They went back to the huddle and Morton told Hill he was lined up wrong and where were his brains?

Bob Hayes, the swift receiver, looked through his face guard and into Calvin Hill's face and said, "And you went to Yale?"

It was a funny thing to say and a good thing, because it relieved a tense situation.

"I think there have been three time-outs called because I lined up wrong," he said. "But even veterans, someone like Bobby Joe Conrad, who's been in the league for 10, 11 years, make mistakes lining up.

"But I never realized how complex football can be. And I think Tom Landry is a genius. (Landry is the Cowboys' coach.) I could never coach a pro football team. You have to know too much . . ."

Hill has a delicate way of keeping perspective. He is a bright man who, at 14, was taken out of a Baltimore ghetto and sent to high school at Riverdale Prep School in New York City, a school for gifted kids. He went to Yale on a scholarship.

While other successful athletes capitalize quickly on their fame by leaping into movies and related ventures, Hill attends Perkins Theology School at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. Nowadays, someone who professes interest in the church is considered either scary, suspicious or straight. Or all three.

"When I'm through with football," he said, "I want to go into the church. I want to get a position of power in the hierarchy of the church. The Baptist church, I guess. I'm a Baptist." His mustache twitched resignedly.

"But I consider myself a Christian, really. Denominational associations have been too political. But you have to belong to one to have any impact. I want to stimulate social activism through the church, particularly to help in the ghettos. The church could be a powerful force, just the way Rev. Coffin of Yale has made his impact. I'd like to emulate him."

But before he does that full time, he still has a whole career of football to go. And the eyes of Mory's are upon him.

Uhl Hits 45, But Jack's Barbers Edge Rays

KINGSTON — Jack's Barber Shop used team balance to override a 45-point barrage by Jumpin" Joe Uhl and edged Ray Chevrolet, 91-86, in the YMCA "A" basketball league.

The victory evened Jack's record at 5 wins and 5 losses. Ray's suffered their fourth defeat in 11 outings and now trail league leading Bernard's Raiders by three games in the revised standings in the "A" division.

Spartan Pools, who now trail Ray's by only one game, took over the Conlin record which was 0-2 at the time of their entry in the league. Spartan's only loss in actual competition was to Ray's.

Standings Reshuffled

As the result of the reshuffled standings, the win and loss columns will show uneven numbers, but that is the decision by the league officials.

	W	L
Bernard's Raiders	8	1
Ray Chevrolet	7	4
Spartan Pools	6	3
Jack's Barber Shop	5	5
Scholar's Five	4	5

Rims 19 Baskets

Uhl, the league's leading scorer, rimmed 19 baskets and converted seven free throws for his 45 points. But with Komosa and Burns leading the diversified Jack's attack, the winners jumped off to a 24-18 quarter lead.

Ray's made their big pitch in the second period with 31 points to forge ahead 49-46 at halftime but Jack's held them even 19-19 in the third quarter and dominated the fourth period 26-18 to build up its victory margin, which actually came from the free throw line.

Chevrolets had a 36-35 edge in baskets but trailed 14-21 at the free throw line.

Burns (21) and Komosa (20) led Jack's, with Tomaseskie rimming 15, Passante 13 and Klonowski 10.

With the reshuffled standings, the Raiders, who have been running a hot streak, are odds-on favorites to wrap up the "A" pennant.

Spartan Pools have lost the services of several Ulster County Community College players, who are now engaged in official practice sessions leading up to UCCC's basketball opener Nov. 19 at Binghamton against nationally ranked Broome Tech.

A meeting to make plans for the 1969-70 YMCA winter basketball schedule is expected to be held in the near future.

Webster and Giant Fans Watching Different Game?

NEW YORK (UPI)—Coach Alex Webster and the 62,000 New York Giant season ticket holders seem to be watching different games.

Webster gives various reasons for the Giants' three-game losing streak, including a 23-20 loss to Philadelphia last week. He claims the receivers "aren't hustling" and the offensive linemen have been "terrible." He said the failures of the punting team have played a key role in every loss.

But the Yankee Stadium boobirds, frustrated because they don't dare give up their season tickets in case the team does become a winner in the future but aren't getting much for their money, look at the situation differently.

They're blaming Tarkenton for the failures of the offensive unit, which has produced only four touchdowns in the last four games. And Tarkenton has become the favorite target of their boos now that Allie Sherman has been deposed.

As the boos increase, though, Webster has become more vehement in defense of his quarterback.

"It's been the breakdown of the other people on the offensive team," Webster said, "and that's been making Fran look bad but it's not his fault."

ALEX WEBSTER

Webster even took the unusual step of saying he planned to show the writers some films in the next two weeks to prove that Tarkenton has been looking bad only because of the mistakes of other players.

Tarkenton has remained quite calm with the storm surrounding him while discussing the quarterback's role.

"The quarterback's job is to put points on the board," Tarkenton said, "and if they aren't there, it's my fault. Somehow, I have to find a way to score."

Since Tarkenton is a scrambler, he's continually involved in discussions centering on whether he stays in the pocket too long or not enough.

"I'm controversial because I'm different from the norm and I accept that," Tarkenton said, "but the key is that when things are going well, it never comes up. But when they're not going well, then there's always talk that I either run too much or not enough."

Tarkenton did get annoyed when it was suggested he's waiting too long to throw. "That's totally ridiculous," he said. "You can say that about a rookie but not a nine-year veteran."

Tarkenton also said he hasn't slowed down even though he's 29, and claims he's faster now than he was when he entered the pros. He ran a 5.2 40-yard sprint when he started and said he does it in 5.0 now.

FRAN TARKENTON

When asked if the defensive men—who've dumped him 14 times in the last two games and have deflected several passes, he says, "there's no question there's been a change in the defensive men but it hasn't happened overnight in the past few games."

Regardless of what the Giant problems are, Webster is planning plenty of changes. He'll have new men on the punting team and in the offensive line and also may switch the receivers around. He said flatly, "Homer Jones isn't playing up to his capacity." Jones has dropped several passes and doesn't carry out his fakes well when he's not the top receiver.

But Webster has no choice but to defend his quarterback. Tarkenton's replacements, Milt Plum and Gary Wood, are no improvement and the coach must go all the way—for this season at least—with Tarkenton. He can only hope Tarkenton isn't going downhill.

But regardless of who's fault it is, the Giant season is going to be a disaster if the offense doesn't start scoring more.

WAC Reaches No Conclusion on Expulsion of BYU

DENVER (UPI) — Possible expulsion of Brigham Young University from the Western Athletic Conference along with other solutions to disturbances in the conference centering around BYU, was discused for three hours without any conclusions at the WAC Athletic Council meeting in Denver Tuesday.

The discussion was set off by a demand by the chairman of the Black Students Union (BSU) at the University of Arizona for the removal of BYU from the eight member conference.

Gale Dean, the chairman of the Arizona BSU, told the AV Gale Dean, the chairman of the Arizona BSU, told the WAC athletic directors and faculty representatives that continued affiliation of BYU would 'help perpetrate and perpetuate a racist doctrine which we, as black men and women of the University of Arizona, and as black members of the 2:, cannot do."

Dean said the Arizona BSU was supported in its position by similar groups at four other WAC schools and several other non-affiliated institutions.

The demands were touched off by the suspension of 14 black athletes from the University of Wyming football team Oct. 17 after they violated a rule by Coach Lloyd Eaton against participating in student demonstrations. The Wyoming athletes had worn black armbands into Eaton's office, protesting alleged racist policies at BYU and the Mormon Church. The church operates the Provo, Utah, university.

The WAC council, holding its regular meeting in Denver, discussed the BYU situation at length but reached no decisions.

WAC Commissioner Wiles Hallock said after the closed session that the situation was gone over "pretty thoroughly."

He said there was general "concern and realization that under present circumstances any school that plays a game with BYU can expect demonstrations and student activism can erupt."

But, Hallock said, "I don't think the conference feels that the theological precepts of the Mormon Church are the interest of the conference." The council, Hallock said, will consider at its final session Wednesday whether to make a recommendation to the Presidents' Council to adopt a conference policy on athletes' participation in demonstrations and protests.

No one during the meeting suggested that BYU should be expelled from the conference, Hallock said, although the possibility was discussed "in a wide range of extremes seeking a solution."

He said the dominant feeling at the meeting was "to preserve the conference as it now exists."

The directors generally felt, he said, that there are areas of student rights in legitimate concerns over which the coach should have no control as long as it does not affect the team or athletic programs or the athlete's eligibility.

If the conference does not decide any policy on student-athlete involvement, then it will be up to the individual school, Hallock said.

Dean Milton F. Hartvigen of BYU, the school's faculty representative on the council and the chairman of the council, issued a statement during the meeting denying that BYU was racist.

The university's policy "in no way restricts anyone from attending BYU because of the color of his skin," he said.

"True," the statement said, "there is not a large number of black students on our campus. But that is a result of their decisions, not of our policy."

He said BYU has tried to recruit black athletes but "we have, frankly, not met with much success. We have had two fine Negro students on our track team. Another tried out for our basketball team."

STONE RIDGE

James Lopiano set a new Rondout Valley Central cross country record, as the Ganders edged Ellenville High 26-29 in a dual meet nere Tuesday.

Lopiano, a senior who completed an unbeaten season in dual competition, was clocked in 12 minutes, six seconds over the 2.3-mile Gander layout.

Lopiano, who finished 10th in the Class B division of the Section Nine competition last weekend finished 11 seconds ahead of Ellenville's Tom Mansell, who had placed second in the Class C-D division in the Section Nine competition at Bear Mountain.

Gary Stewart of Rondout was third in 12:32. Glenn Hines of Ellenville (12:36) took the fourth slot by a two-second margin over Rondout's Randall.

The victory enabled the Ganders to finish the season over the .500 mark, with five victories and four defeats.

Lung Ailment Hits Rudy York

ROME, Ga. (UPI)—Rudy York, a former major league baseball star who once hit 18 home runs in a month, underwent surgery for lung cancer Tuesday.

His son-in-law, Clayton Pruitt, said York, 56, also would receive radiation treatments. He was kept in the Floyd County Hospital intensive care unit.

York, who quit the baseball scene in the early 1960s because he "got tired of traveling," has been working as a self-employed painter in Cartersville, Ga.

York was born in Ragland, Ala., and joined the Detroit Tigers in 1937, the year he hit 18 homers in the month of August, a record that still stands. He wound up the year with 35 homes, his career high. A first baseman who also could play third, the outfield and catch, York stayed with the Tigers until 1945 when he went to the Boston Red Sox.

He later saw service with the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics, retiring in 1948. He managed in the minors in the 1950s, returning to the Red Sox in 1959 as first base coach. He managed one game during that season.

In 13 years, York appeared in 1,603 games, with a .275 lifetime batting average. He hit 277 home runs and drove in 1,152 runs. In 1943, he led the American League in homers with 34 and RBI's with 118 in 1943.

Super Bowl Tix Will Cost $15

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 1970 Super Bowl football game will be quite democratic in that it will cost you $15 no matter where you sit—end zone or 50 yard line.

The price per ticket to the Jan. 11 game in Tulan's 80,000-seat stadium was announced Tuesday by Jim Kensil, executive director of commissioner Pete Rozelle's office.

The game matches the champions of the American and National football leagues. Tickets to the last game, which saw the New York Jets upset Baltimore in Miami, were scaled at $12, $8 and $6.

Defense Authorization Bill Satisfies Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — A leading Senate critic of military spending says he is satisfied with the work of a House-Senate conference committee on a defense authorization bill although it stripped away many hard-won restrictions on the Pentagon.

"It is a good beginning," Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., said in commenting on the $20.7 billion authorization bill approved by conferees. "This shows that solid progress can be made and that it is possible to bring military spending under control."

Proxmire was one of the senators who battled through two months of debate this past summer to cut back defense spending and put new restrictions on the Pentagon.

A compromise drawn up by the conferees will put the first legislative curbs on chemical-biological warfare, although the provisions aren't as strong as the Senate would have imposed.

Also watered down or eliminated by the conference committee were restrictions the Senate had voted on auditing of defense contracts, independent research and U.S. military assistance to Laos and Thailand. The committee retained a curb on social science research.

The conferees accepted $415 million of an unbudgeted $1 billion the House approved for ship construction and $28 million to start research on the proposed "Freedom Fighter" jet aircraft for Asian countries.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, said he was pleased with the compromise measure.

The Pentagon ended up with some money for just about all the weapons systems it wanted, even those which one house or the other had deleted.

As for chemical-biological warfare, the compromise includes provisions similar to the Senate restrictions on testing, transportation and storage of the controversial bugs and germs.

But it provides that instead of tests and transportation being banned until proven safe, they would be permitted unless shown to be unsafe. And the President can give authority on national security grounds to waive the restrictions.

The conferees banned germ and gas warfare delivery systems but restored $5.5 million research funds.

He also said a compromise on independent research provisions would result in a reduction of at least $50 million.

The Senate had voted a $468 million limit for such research, but the conferees, under great pressure from the Pentagon and defense contractors, agreed finally on a 7 per cent reduction from planned costs. Stennis was unable to give an accurate figure but said these might run as high as $720 million.

Final congressional approval of the measure later this week is considered merely a formality. While this would open the way for Congress to act on the massive $70 billion-plus defense appropriations bill, Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee said the measure won't come before the House until early December.

NOTICE OF SALE
Index No. 4809

IN PURSUANCE of and by virtue of a Judgment or Decree in Foreclosure, duly granted in the above entitled action on the 15th day of October, 1969, I, JOHN J. LYNCH, the undersigned Referee, in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction at the lobby of the Ulster County Courthouse, in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster and State of New York, on the 17th day of November, 1969, at 11:30 a.m. of that day, as one parcel and property, the premises described in said Judgment, as follows:

ALL THOSE LOTS, PIECES OR PARCELS OF LAND, situated in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the northerly side of Delaware Avenue and are known and distinguished as Lots Numbers 611, 612 and 613 on the revised edition of 1887 of the Map of E. B. Newkirk of 1867 and are bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a point in the northerly side of Delaware Avenue distance ninety-two feet and five inches easterly from the corner of Third Avenue, as given on said Map and at the corner of Lot No. 610, and runs thence along the same at right angles with Delaware Avenue one hundred feet more or less to Lot No. 608; thence along the same as in 1887 S. 63° 31' E., fifty-five feet more or less to the rear corner of said Lot No. 608; thence N. 26° 29' East as in 1887 along the rear end of Lots Nos. 608-607 and 606 one hundred feet more or less to the right of way of the Ulster and Delaware Railroad; thence southerly along the same as the same curves thirty-three feet more or less to the easterly bounds of Lot No. 613; thence along the same and the easterly bounds of Lot No. 612 South 24° 39' West as in 1887 one hundred and fifty feet more or less to the said Delaware Avenue; thence westerly along the same fifty-seven feet to the place of beginning.

BEING the same premises described in deed executed by Marie F. Dixon and Harry F. Bailey to Jay Kloss and Lucille A. Kloss, his wife, and Frank J. Leirey and Anna M. Leirey, his wife, dated August 13, 1964 and recorded on the same date in Liber 1155 of Deeds at page 799. ALSO BEING the same premises described in deed executed by Harry F. Bailey, as General Guardian of Carol Bailey, an infant, to Jay Kloss and Lucille A. Kloss, hise wife, and Frank J. Leirey and Anna M. Leirey, his wife, dated August 13, 1964 and recorded on the same date in Liber 1155 of Deeds at page 801.

The said Anna M. Leirey died intestate, a resident of Ulster County on November 9, 1966.

Introducing A Used Car Guarantee . . .
It Doesn't Come With Every Car

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantees? All kinds. Chevys, Fords, Ramblers, VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens).

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

Dear Abby

Keep Peace in Family

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My problem is between my husband (I'll call him Eugene) and my father. Eugene is 25 and my father is 65.

Several months ago they had an argument during which a lot of angry words were spoken. It ended when my father told Eugene never to set foot in his house again! (I'm sure my father didn't really mean it because he keeps asking me how Eugene is.)

I keep telling Eugene that my father didn't mean what he said, and my husband says, "Well, if he didn't, let him call me and say so."

My father is a very stubborn man, and I can't see him calling my husband and telling him he didn't "mean" it. Eugene is also very stubborn, and he won't make the first move either.

What do you suggest be done? My mother and I are very much upset over this, and we can't seem to get the two of them together.

UPSET IN UTAH

DEAR UPSET: Keep working on Eugene. Tell him that out of respect to your father's age, the younger man should give in.

And ask your mother to keep working on your father, telling him that since HE told his son-in-law never to set foot in his house again, it's up to him to tell him that he IS welcome, if indeed he is. And let the bigger man extend his hand first. (I'm betting on your husband. Youth is usually quicker to forgive.) P.S. My husband is betting on the old man. He says your mother will have more influence on her husband than you have on yours.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am stupid, but do you know of anyone who can contact the dead?

I recently lost my beloved husband and I sometimes feel his "presence" near me so strongly that I know I could communicate with him if I knew how.

I have heard that there are "mediums" who can put the living in touch with the dead. Do you know any such person? I am willing to pay to have this done. I'm signing my name for you, alone. Please don't publish it. Thank you.

FROM KENTUCKY

DEAR FROM: Many have claimed that they can communicate with the dead, but so far no one has been able to prove it. Me? I'm from Missouri.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: In June I met a real cool guy I'll call "Mac" who said he was on leave from the army, then my father pointed out that Mac had an awfully long "leave." Well, it turned out that Mac was AWOL. We were pretty serious about each other by this time so I told him if he didn't go back and turn himself in I wouldn't ever see him again.

Mac turned himself in and took his punishment which wasn't as bad as we thought it'd be as it was his first offense. Two weeks ago Mac came home and confessed that he went AWOL again. We had a big fight and I made him go back. This time they put him in the stockade for a good long time.

We planned on getting married when he gets out of service, but now I'm not sure! If it weren't for these black marks against him in the service he would be a wonderful guy. What do you think?

THINKING IT OVER

DEAR THINKING: First, you'd better wait until your "real cool guy" gets out of the cooler — out of the service, and into civilian life. Then take a good hard second look at him. And I think you're going to have plenty of time to think it over.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: What is all this nonsense about gentlemen preferring blondes?

I consider myself a gentleman, and I have never dated — or had the desire to date — anything but a brunette.

I have spent 58 months out of the last six years in brunetteland. That is, Viet Nam, Korea, Central and South America, and I can't wait to get back to Korea.

I wouldn't walk across the street to meet the most beautiful blonde or redhead in the world. The only women who are ALL WOMEN are brunettes.

A GENTLEMAN WHO PREFERS BRUNETTES

DEAR GENTLEMAN: You have made the day for many brunettes. (Including this one.)

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

AGE GAP: (Q.) I am 18 and the boy I like is 15. He knows I like him and he has told me that he likes me. I don't think our ages make a bit of difference but he does. Is he right?—18 and Unhappy in Philadelphia.

(A.) He is right in that he thinks he is not mature enough for you. The maturity of the boy and girl is the determining factor in age gaps such as yours. Some other 15-year-old boy might be mature enough for you. This one apparently isn't.

GIRL SHY: (Q.) I go to a boys' school and don't know many girls. I look OK and don't have much acne, but I am shy around girls. I'm afraid they won't like me.

I'm almost 16 and soon I'll be able to drive a car. My parents say this will change things. They say I'm a good talker and with a car I can charm the girls. I'm not so sure.

I haven't really asked you any questions, but hope you can tell me how to overcome my shyness and start dating.—A Backward Boy in New York State.

(A.) Keep in mind that, as a male, you are at a distinct advantage. You can try to make friends with any girl you meet. Keep in mind, too, that if one girl says no you can ask another.

Remember, too, that most girls are eager to be asked for a date. Many a girl would be delirious at the thought of a date with a good-looking, clear-faced guy with a car and the ability to tell her in a convincing way that she's wonderful.

To meet new girls, get a job—in a service station, department store, super market, drugstore. Go to sports events. In short, be where the girls are. And when you see one you especially like, be friendly to her, ask for her phone number, and call her.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered)

Horoscope By SIDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1969

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Surprising developments affect and change your image. Be ready for sudden thrust into limelight. A friend who appeared innocuous takes daring step which could involve you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Steer clear of stimulants. Make most of rest periods. You cannot do everything at once. Steady pace will attain goal. Blowing off steam can only lead to senseless dispute.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Good lunar aspect today coincides with romantic gesture from one who attracts you. Know that your personal magnetism is vibrant. Be confident. Pleasure principle accented.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): There are challenges practically made to order for you. Your hunches are correct. Your natural abilities come to fore. Don't fear the unknown. Circumstances will favor your efforts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Surprises apt to occur in connection with relatives in transit. Your mind races ahead of actions. Be sure others are familiar with your meanings. Pace yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Be versatile. Some financial dealings appear erratic. Be ready to move with the times. Key is flexibility. Purchase of unique product is favored. Unorthodox methods succeed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Sudden changes, publicity, romance, unusual happenings in creative area — these are highlighted. This should be one of the most significant days of week for you. Break through to new horizons.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Very difficult to keep activities a secret. Family soon gets wind of what's occuring. Know this — act accordingly. Be ready for surprises. One who was confined to hospital is released.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Friends may act in eccentric manner. You will have to be self-reliant. Messages could be garbled. Do your own checking. Strive for balance — especially in financial area.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): There is room for you at the top. Your decisions, actions are apt to sparkle with originality. One in authority trusts you to make right move where money is concerned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Much to your possible amazement, there is flurry of response to recent correspondence, efforts. What seemed out of reach becomes available. Be practical. Live up to responsibility.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): One close to you feels greater freedom to decide, act. Give advice, aid when it is requested But avoid trying to impose your will on others.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are intensely loyal. When you give your word, you keep it. You may soon be tempted with get-rich-quick scheme. Reject it.

Campbell Has a Sunday Date

Miss Uggams and her program will leave the air next month. In the national ratings for the week of Oct. 20-26, her series ranked 65th among 88 shows.

The Uggams series will be replaced, starting Dec. 21, by Glen Campbell's musical hour, which will leave its Wednesday slot and take over as CBS-TV's Sunday competition for "Bonanza."

The Campbell show finished a powerful 16th in the ratings, while NBC-TV's "Bonanza" was even more potent, coming in second among all programs.

Ironically, the Campbell series originally was brought to the airwaves by the Smothers Brothers organization. Now it is asked to do what the brothers did successfully for a while before being fired—keep "Bonanza" in check.

Campbell's Wednesday night slot, meanwhile, will be taken over on Dec. 17 by a weekly one-hour entry called "Hee Haw," a sort of hilbilly version of "Laugh-In." A successful ratings run last summer earned "Hee Haw" its new regular-season spot.

CBS-TV, by the way, is also canceling another series: The half-hour situation comedy called "The Good Guys," starring Bob Denver and Herb Edelman.

This has actually been a rather good slapstick series, with Denver and Edelman an increasingly pleasant team. The show, however, finished 66th in the latest ratings.

Replacing "The Good Guys," beginning on Jan. 30, will be a new half-hour situation comedy starring Tim Conway, formerly of "McHale's Navy" and numerous guest appearances on variety shows.

All Monday series on CBS-TV ranked among the top 14 programs. The powerhouse lineup includes "Gunsmoke"—which was the most popular show in the land. It also includes Lucille Ball (No. 4), "Mayberry R.F.D." (No. 6), Carol Burnett (No. 14) and even the erratic Doris Day series, which climbed to the No. 10 spot.

Also of interest was the fact that the enormously popular movie "Tom Jones," which won numerous honors, ranked only 47th. It may be further proof that what appeals to young audiences in movie theaters is not precisely the cup of tea of the older audience that watches television.

Opening lead—♥ Q

In match point duplicate play, when you are in a normal contract you avoid safety plays and go after overtricks. In rubber bridge, the reverse applies. You play safe for your contract and just go for overtricks after the contract is assured.

Any good rubber bridge player would win the heart lead and play a diamond to dummy's nine at trick two. Later on he would gallop home with four diamond tricks and his contract.

An over-pessimistic duplicate player would perhaps try the same safety play and would come up with a top score this time, but a good duplicate player would bang out the top diamonds and wind up down one if the defense did its job properly.

Why would he do this? Because he would be in a normal contract and would play for as many tricks as possible. Overtricks mean little in rubber bridge. They mean wins in duplicate play.

The diamond jack will drop 54 per cent of the time, so he starts with a 54 per cent chance of making five diamond tricks. Then, if the diamond jack fails to drop, he can still bring home nine tricks if the clubs divide 3-3.

In addition, West will have to make two discards on diamonds. He had better throw away two spades and hang onto all his clubs and hearts if he wants to keep South from making a third trick in one of those suits.

If all this happens to him, South can reason that he shouldn't have gotten out of bed that morning and look forward to a better day.

Stone Ridge Man on Missing Tug in Atlantic

By SHANE CROSBY

STONE RIDGE

While his wife and five children sit and wait at home here, Coast Guard and Navy ships are combing the cold waters of the Atlantic off North Carolina for faint signs of life from tug boat engineer Joe Clarke and five shipmates lost with their boat since Sunday.

Mrs. Marie Clarke and her children who live along Route 213 here were told by the McAllister Brothers Towing Company Sunday that here husband, a veteran chief engineer on the Marjorie McAllister, was missing with tug and crew off Morehead, N. C. in a storm.

Hope was raised in the now four-day-old search for the tug and crew when officials indicated that the crew might be alive within the 120-foot ocean-going tug even as it sits on the bottom of the Atlantic. There also is the faint hope that the tug has not gone down, but is afloat somewhere off the coast.

The "SOS" that said six persons were aboard the sinking cruiser "Contrice" has been listed by Coast Guard officials as a hoax on the part of some citiizen band radio operator.

"It's all in the hands of God right now," said Mrs. Clarke. McAllister officials "said they hesitated to give up hope," she added, "it could go one way or the other."

That her husband might be alive within the sunken tug in about 112 feet of water "is my only hope," she said.

Coast Guard Cutters and aircraft found wreckage and survival equipment in an oil slick near the last reported position of the Marjorie McAllister Monday and Tuesday afternoon and reported they had made sonar contact with "a sunken object" in about 112 feet of water some 19 miles off the coast.

Chances that the $1.2 million tug rests on the bottom with the crew alive in watertight compartments are considered slim by Coast Guard admission. The tug is only six months old and the Coast Guard says it could have swamped in the storm without letting water into the crew's compartments, which could be sealed.

"It's a new vessel and is probably intact if it did go down," Lt. Howard Copeland told The Associated Press in Portsmouth, Va. "The chances of it being watertight are very good.

Lt. Copeland said the 112-feet of water is a "good depth for diving work" and men entered the water in the area of the sonar contact Tuesday afternoon.

A spokesman for the Coast Guard at Portsmouth, Va., told The Freeman today that visibility at the time of the dive was only "about five inches" under water, but fresh attempts might be made later. He said weather conditions are "about normal for fall" with seas running five to six feet and winds of 25 ot 30 knots.

The search also is continuing for the tug on the surface on the "faint hope the vessel has not sunk," the spokesman said.

Heart of Business District

Another Disastrous Fire Hits Poughkeepsie

By WALTER S. CLARK

POUGHKEEPSIE

A three-alarm fire early today wrecked Republican headquarters and three business establishments on Main Street, destroyed two three-story brick apartment-mercantile buildings and threatened several other structures in the heart of this city's business section.

One volunteer firemen was injured when hit by falling debris and bricks as walls collapsed. He was hospitalized.

An elderly dispatcher in a nearby taxicab office suffered a fatal heart attack as he reportedly hurried to safety. He was not immediately identified.

14 Evacuated

Four families comprising about 14 persons were evacuated as fire roared through the buildings. They were taken care of at hotels through Red Cross facilities.

The fire was one of the worst to hit the city, which has been plagued by a rash of serious fires in the last week. Most of the previous blazes were of incendiary origin and are under investigation.

Fire companies from Arlington and Fairview were called to the scene to assist. Other units from distant districts were relocated during the height of the blaze.

Fire Chief Irving Merrick said the fire originated on the main floor at 393 Main Street, which was the headquarters for the City and County Republican committees.

Flames roared through the building and within a short time spread to the Sun Wall Paper and Paint Inc. store at 395 Main Street. As fire lashed through the store ,a series of explosions apparently caused by bursting paint cans, rocked the area and threatened firefighters. The blasts shot burning embers and bricks across the main thoroughfare.

While the conflagration-like blaze roared out of control in the three buildings, a fire wall fortunately stopped the spread of the flames and prevented the blaze from entering the Mitchell Furniture Company Store at 389 Main Street, which is owned by incumbent Republican Mayor Richard W. Mitchell. Heavy smoke and water damage was reported in the store.

Tons of water were directed into the raging flames that eventually destroyed the wallpaper store, a doughnut establishment at Main and North Hamilton Street and a beauty salon.

During the height of the blaze the upper floors of two buildings collapsed, knocking out walls and hurling tons of brick and debris into the streets, forcing firemen to retreat.

Several Firemen Felled

Several firemen suffered from smoke inhalation and were treated at the scene by emergency crews. Others received minor cuts.

The holocaust spread from the wallpaper store up through apartments and mushroomed out causing damage to a restaurant on North Hamilton Street, next door to a firehouse.

Fire officials could give no monetary amount of the loss caused by today's major blaze. The origin, although not considered incendiary, was under investigation by police and fire authorities.

During the fire traffic was rerouted around the downtown business district. Police, aided by fire police and Civil Defense volunteers, set up fire lanes to keep back the thousands of spectators attracted to the fire area.

Several fire companies from outside districts moved into the city to coverup at local stations.

Within the last week, the city was hit by at least five fires that officials said were "definitely set." Destroyed in one of those incendiary blazes was the former three-story building on Hooker Avenue known as the Poughkeepsie Day School. Earlier yesterday a suspicious blaze swept a large unoccupied frame duplex house on Pershing Avenue.

'70 Budget Hearing In Ulster Tonight

TOWN OF ULSTER

A public hearing on the Town of Ulster's $343,545 preliminary budget for 1970 will be held 7:30 tonight at Lake Katrine Grange Hall.

The preliminary budget reflects a decrease of .56 per $1,000 of assessed valuation in the general operation of town government and an increase of $1.48 per thousand for highway purposes. This will provide an overall tax increase of .92 per thousand which does not include county charges.

The total appropriation for the general fund is $174,740, an increase of $4,950.20. However, a decrease in the amount to be raised will be possible due to increased estimated revenues.

New Pensions For Teamsters

KINGSTON

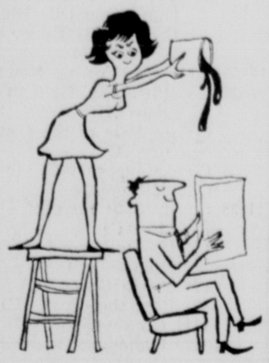

Theodore G. Daley, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 445 and chairman of the local pension fund has announced another major advance in attaining full retirement security for eligible members of the construction and freighters divisions.

Results of a study that made $300 monthly pensions possible are reviewed recently by Daley, principal officer of the union and Anthony Alecca, also of Local 445.

The trustees raised the pension level to the new maximum of $300 a month. This move raises the construction division pension benefit to one of the highest levels of any pension fund in the construction industry.

In the freight and dairy division, the pension plan was increased so that a member aged 65, with 25 eligible years of service who retires after Jan. 1 will receive the $300 monthly pension.

INTRODUCING... A REVOLUTIONARY NEW COLOR TV SYSTEM
ZENITH CHROMACOLOR

23" giant-screen
DIAG. 295 sq. in. picture

The revolutionary new Chromacolor picture tube, with Zenith's patented black-surround principle, brings you a color TV picture more than 100% brighter than any previous giant-screen color TV. Here's how it works! Every giant-screen color picture tube is covered with tiny red, green, and blue dots that make up the color TV picture. Previously, they have been placed close together on a gray background. But now Zenith, in the patented Chromacolor picture tube, has made the dots smaller and surrounded them with jet-black. This Zenith patented black-surround screen—together with precision electron beam tracking and increased light-transmission tube face—brings you a brighter color picture, greater definition and sharper detail than ever previously achieved in giant-screen color TV. Chromacolor . . . the dramatic difference you can see in color TV!

- New Chromacolor Picture Tube
- New Handcrafted Color Chassis TITAN 90
- New RGB Color Circuitry
- New Chromatic Brain
- New Color Commander Control
